In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

For two honeyed hours on Monday, this swinging western Legislative Assembly achieved such general goodwill as caused its camp-followers to halfway expect official and minor oppositions to cross the floor in a body.

The occasion was not the official birth of Canada's new flag, which now greets the eye from poles and wall sconces in and about this grey old seat of provincial government, but Premier William Andrew Cecil Bennett's triumphant longevity in office.

For 12½ years, Mr. Bennett has been master of this House, a feat which fetched him a congratulatory telegram from the six daughters of runner-up Sir Richard McBride.

It was the day of the big triumph, an occasion which Premier Bennett shared with wife and son, galleries laden with Socrated supporters young and not so young, and a full House.

Only one seat gaped empty when, to vigorous desk-slapping, Mr. Bennett made his smile-wreathed entry.

With dramatic exactitude of timing, PGE workers and management had reached a tentative strike settlement at noon. From this peace-making attempt, Labor and Education Minister Peterson was hastening to Victoria.

Mr. Peterson—who later reported on current and upcoming education programs—hustled in a minute after prayers, to shake the premier's hand and join the love-feast.

During the first two hours, New Democrat darts were tipped, not with the usual tinctures, but with much honey and only a touch of vinegar. Opposition Leader Strachan's proposal that Mr. Bennett's political life be forthwith extended by appointment to the Senate was greeted by Socrateds with amiable laughter.

Waspish Liberal chief Ray Perrault delivered but the mildest of jabs.

"We wish him health," said he, "we wish him happiness... but not necessarily continuing political success."

On Tuesday, the arrows might be flying fit to blacken the sun. But on mellow Monday the smiles were glued on, and even-mention of our current snarl-yow, the "Dear Hal" letter, brought no rejoinder from Attorney-General Bonner.

As for Mr. Bonner, our most graceful parliamentarian, he placed himself second to Mr. Strachan in a motion that a congratulatory address be read to Mr. Bennett.

It was obvious that the premier was deeply moved. For a moment after he rose to reply, it seemed that for the first time in his political career, he might be in danger of losing his voice.

His opening words were difficult to catch; then he drew a deep breath, and contributed to the occasion a response which was brief, generous, and curiously humble.

"I can stand criticism," he said. "Praise is more difficult to accept."

The familiar climate of criticism was presently restored. Just short of 4 o'clock, Liberal Dr. Pat McGeer, Vancouver-Point Grey, flung the first verbal tomahawk of the day at Education Minister Peterson.

Why, he demanded, had university grants been slashed by $5 million?

The minister denied, the gavel smacked, and even though NDP Alex Macdonald, Vancouver East, bit somewhat more mildly than usual in his following speech, the truce was over.

"Disraeli," Mr. Macdonald informed the House, "did not object to the suggestion that Gladstone always had an ace up his sleeve. What he resented was the inference that the Almighty placed it there!"

Trainmen Rebuff Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Great Eastern Railway trainmen rebelled against their union leaders Monday night and continued a strike against the provincially-owned railway only hours after agreement had been announced.

Picket lines went up again around PGE yards and the trainmen said they would not return to work.

They said they were "sold down the river" by their negotiating committee, which signed an agreement to end the strike that began Feb. 2 without permitting a vote among striking members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

The move came only hours after Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and representatives of the PGE and the Brotherhood's negotiating committee emerged from a meeting to announce a settlement.

Despite what Mr. Peterson terms a "wildcat" strike, a freight train left the PGE's North Vancouver station Monday night and a passenger train departed at 10 a.m. today. Both trains were operated by supervisory personnel.

Ballots for a vote on the terms were dispatched to members of two brotherhood locals along the PGE's 790-mile route from Vancouver to Fort St. John.

WANTED VOTE FIRST

The Brotherhood sent a letter Monday night to J. S. Broadbent, general manager of the PGE, telling him the local's members would not go back to work until they voted on the new contract.

The strike had been called off at noon with the signing of a

SPACE BIRD SATELLITE SET TO SPREAD WINGS

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Saturn I rocket, performing flawlessly, hurled a "space bird" satellite into orbit today to measure the impact of meteoroids.

It was the eighth success in a row for the big booster rocket on which the United States counts for major manned space ventures.

Folded in the nose of the rocket was its unique payload, officially named Pegasus after the flying horse of Greek mythology.

Once in orbit, the nose shroud was to fall away and Pegasus was to extend two wing-like panels to a span of 96 feet. Each wing is 14 feet wide and about an inch thick.

ANOTHER PREMIER

Viet Cong Hit Truck Convoy

SAIGON (CP)—South Viet Nam's new premier, Dr. Phan Huy Quat, and his cabinet, the ninth in the last 16 months, assumed office today.

On the war front, a U.S. spokesman said Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed a truck convoy in a mountain pass north of Saigon Monday, killing one-third of the government soldiers.

The ambush left 32 government men dead; 8 wounded and 10 missing. About 100 men, a regional forces company, were on the trucks.

Two of three armored-troop carriers escorting the convoy were knocked out by recoilless rifle fire.

One Viet Cong was wounded and captured.

Quat, former foreign minister, presented his 21-member cabinet to chief of state Phan Khac Suu in the ceremonial hall of the Gia Long palace.

INCLUDES OFFICERS

Three army officers were included in the cabinet that will replace a caretaker government ruling the country since the military overthrow of Buddhist-opposed Premier Tran Van Huong last month.

The U.S. mission, commenting on the new cabinet, welcomed "the end of the interim period."

As expected, most of the cabinet members are natives of north and central Viet Nam. The militant Buddhists are strongly represented.

In a speech today, Quat said all bases for Communist aggression in South Viet Nam must be destroyed.

All Communist Viet Cong supply routes must also be wiped out, the premier said.

"If we could seal off all the supply routes, including the Ho Chi-minh Trail, the National Liberation Front (the political arm of the Viet Cong) would not be able to carry on the war."

In central Viet Nam, where troops Monday killed 15 civilians in putting down two anti-government demonstrations, a firing squad execution was scheduled for one of the demonstrators.

Brig-Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi said two of the dead were known Viet Cong agitators, and the prisoner scheduled for execution Wednesday was a Viet Cong section leader.

This said the prisoner will be shot in Tam Ky as a warning against further demonstrations. Unofficial reports spoke of 40 dead.

Raids Could Spread War, Russ Warn

MOSCOW (CP)—Moscow radio warned the United States today that continued strikes against North Viet Nam could ignite a world war.

Soviet Premier Kossygin also has called for the withdrawal of U.S. troops and military equipment from South Viet Nam, Tass news agency said.

In an English language broadcast beamed at North America, Moscow radio said:

"The old saying 'peace is indivisible' remains true to this day."

"The flames of war starting in one place could easily spread to neighboring countries and, in the final count, embrace the whole world."

Apparently Ottawa's going to see that Mister Bennett don't laugh his way through the bank.

Viet Nam situation seems to be that each party don't know what the other feller's going to do, and hopes he won't.

FBI ARRESTS FOUR, CHARGING:

'Blast Spree Planned'

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal agents arrested a Canadian woman and three American Negro men here today on charges of conspiring to blow up the Washington Monument, the Statue of Liberty and the Liberty Bell.

Taken into custody was blonde Michelle Duclos, 28, of Montreal, known there as a television personality and a member of the Quebec separatist organization, Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale. Also arrested were Robert S. Collier, 28, Walter A. Bowe, 32, and Khaleel S. Sayyed, 22.

City Police Commissioner Michael Murphy, in describing the group as pro-Castro and pro-Chinese Communists, said the three men were affiliated with the Black Liberation Front.

Murphy said the reported plot was frustrated by detective work by police, especially Patrolman Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the Black Liberation Front three months ago.

The commissioner said Collier, a Liberation Front leader, told Wood of meeting Cuban Premier Castro's right-hand man, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, recently at the United Nations.

Conviction could carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said Miss Duclos entered the United States from Canada Monday and has been employed by one of Quebec

Ottawa Foils Bennett's Bank Plans

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Walter Gordon announced today amendments will be made to banking legislation early in the new session of Parliament providing that no shares of a chartered or savings bank may be registered in the name of any government or its agents.

This move is being made to bar the control of Canadian banks by provincial governments and obviously is aimed directly at the province of British Columbia where Premier Bennett has been seeking to set up a Bank of British Columbia.

The action by the federal government will stir up a storm in the Commons. The New Democratic Party and Creditists have supported Premier Bennett's attempt to obtain interest in a proposed new B.C. bank.

On Feb. 5, Premier Bennett announced in his budget speech to the legislature a proposed Revenue Act amendment to allow the provincial government to buy up to 10 per cent of the issued share capital of any chartered bank.

Mr. Bennett, thwarted by a Senate committee last year in his bid to get incorporation for a provincially-sponsored Bank of British Columbia, told reporters the same day that his government intends to "buy some shares" in every chartered bank.

HAS JURISDICTION

Mr. Gordon in a statement prepared for the Commons said: "The British North America Act clearly assigns to parliament exclusive jurisdiction over banking and the incorporation of banks."

"It is the intention of the federal government that this responsibility of parliament and of the government under the authority of parliament shall be maintained and not be eroded," he said.

Mr. Gordon said, "even a limited ownership of shares of a

'CAUSES CONCERN' —BONNER

The federal government has set an historical precedent in a proposal to curb investment rights of B.C., Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

Mr. Bonner said it was the first time in the constitutional history of Canada that the national government has proposed to circumscribe the power of the provinces to invest funds they control in any kind of real or personal property.

He was commenting on federal Finance Minister Gordon's announcement of plans to bar provincial investment in chartered banks.

NO SUGGESTION

The attorney-general said he was "quite surprised." And he said Mr. Gordon's proposal "doesn't reflect, in any degree his stated reaction to the proposal to form the Bank of B.C. a year ago."

He said that in informal discussions since then "between myself and cabinet ministers, there has been no suggestion that a step of this sort was ever in contemplation."

The matter will cause a good deal of concern elsewhere in this country as well as in B.C., he added.

Dief, Balcer Sit Apart

OTTAWA (UPI)—Leon Balcer is staying in the Conservative Party but he was not sitting beside John Diefenbaker when the Commons resumed today.

Balcer has decided to remove the embarrassment of sitting beside the leader he still insists must go.

DEADLY SHOTGUNS PROTECT CALIF. HIGHWAY PATROLS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California is arming most of its 3,000 uniformed highway patrolmen with shotguns as protection against what one state official calls the public's changing attitude towards law enforcement agencies.

The patrolmen have been ordered to shoot to kill, if necessary.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford Crittenden said the need for the additional protection has been growing steadily, "particularly in the number of attacks on our patrolmen."

In the last two years two patrolmen have been slain and 78 others assaulted.

Crittenden, former district attorney, said criminals will be less likely to attack an officer who is armed with a weapon as deadly as the shotgun.

The 12-gauge shotguns will use shells containing the largest buckshot available.

Russ McComb, information officer for the patrol, said the discharge would almost cut a man in two when fired at close range.

Liberals Ready to Name Stonehill Letter Author

Harry McKay (L.-Fernie) today was to tell the legislature the identity of the author of the "Dear Hal" mystery letter while new developments rippled at the fringes of the case in Vancouver and Ottawa.

Mr. McKay was to name the man who wrote the letter, purportedly sent by Premier Bennett, because Attorney-General Robert Bonner had not met Alan Macfarlane's demand Thursday that he do so.

"We are going all the way to the wire," Mr. Macfarlane (L.-Oak Bay) said this morning.

Meanwhile, a Vancouver report said RCMP had taken a load of files from the office of public relations man Al Williamson who was linked closely to the letter by Mr. Macfarlane's speech in the legislature.

CHARGES SEEN

The files related to work Mr. Williamson did for Harry Stonehill on whose behalf he contacted various officials in Ottawa to determine the status of his immigration application. The letter was believed to be an effort to influence outcome of the application.

The report, follows an announcement by Mr. Bonner that RCMP had been instructed to seek "additional information" which could be used in laying charges resulting from the case.

Meanwhile Mr. Williamson today in Vancouver denied that RCMP removed documents from his public relations firm. Mr. Williamson said he has co-operated with police and made available to them what material they wanted.

DORION

that the published report on the Stonehill case said that Denis had mentioned Senator Gelinias and a sum of $25,000 or $30,000.

Dorion is connected with the case because he introduced Denis to Stonehill and Williamson. Mr. Pearson has said Dorion acted with "perfect propriety."

The judge re-read earlier testimony in which Denis said again and again that the Liberal campaign fund was none of his business and that he had been ordered by Mr. Tremblay never to have anything to do with it.

Denis had told Liberal organizer Guy Masson, "don't speak to me about election funds."

SURPRISED, ANNOYED

Denis also testified he was surprised and annoyed that Masson had even mentioned to him that he had telephoned Senator Gelinias June 23.

Masson testified that $60,000 was available to the Liberal party if Rivard's extradition to the U.S. were blocked.

Chief Justice Dorion said the purpose of recalling Denis is not to determine a question of similar acts, but to test the credibility of Denis.

There were "flagrant contradictions" in the testimony of certain witnesses and one of his most difficult tasks was to decide which witness or witnesses to believe.

Chief Justice Dorion then said he would grant the application of Ross Drouin, counsel for the Conservative party, that Denis be recalled for questioning on his alleged statements in the Stonehill case.

He would reserve his decision on whether other witnesses should be called in the Stonehill case until after Denis has been heard.

Jules Deschênes, federal government counsel, asked that the record of the hearings include a note that on behalf of the federal government he regretted Chief Justice Dorion's decision.

Forest Building Tours Scheduled

The new $2,500,000 federal forest research laboratory will open its doors to the public tonight and Wednesday.

Conducted tours for adults and children accompanied by parents have been arranged for 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

First to tour the ultra-modern laboratory were some 300 guests invited to the official opening Monday of the big research centre on Burnside Road.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony was conducted by Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes who in a brief address stressed the importance of B.C. forest lands — the mainstay of the province's economy.

Guests included some of the province's leading forest researchers, representatives from university and scientific organizations and of federal and provincial government officials.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Daley, 469 Admirals Road, who attended the ceremony on behalf of their son who died in September, 1964.

Their son, Gordon William, worked on the building as a carpenter and took a keen interest in its construction. He hoped to attend the official opening but died as the laboratory neared completion.

Guest speakers included Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston, Dr. L. Z. Rousseau, federal deputy minister of forestry, Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis and Ald. H. H. Mooney, representing the city.

LEAF FLAGS DONATED BY CITIZENS

The red maple leaf flag is flying over 17 Saanich schools today by courtesy of a group of generous citizens.

The department of education had ordered schools to continue to fly the Red Ensign until the new flags arrived, but Saanich citizens were impatient.

A group organized a collection, raised enough money to purchase 17 flags and saw that they were distributed in time for Saanich to stay in step with the rest of the country at noon Monday.

No ceremonies marked the 17 flag-raising.

Dupuis Probe Report to A-G

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons today that he decided last month to seek the resignation of Yvon Dupuis from the cabinet after seeing a preliminary report on allegations against the former minister without portfolio. He ordered the probe last December.

The prime minister said the inquiry still is incomplete, but the preliminary report has been referred to Attorney-General Claude Wagner of Quebec.

TRAINMEN

contract agreed to by J. W. Robinson, chairman of the Brotherhood's PGE locals.

Before it was signed, members sought an injunction to prevent the ratification, but were too late.

They called an emergency meeting and asked Mr. Robinson to resign as general chairman of Locals 1080 and 645.

A union spokesman said the strike is legal, not wildcat, and is based on the union's constitution.

A week after the 17 trainmen struck Feb. 2, the PGE closed down and laid off 1,400 non-striking employees because of telephoned threats to them and their families.

Mediator Dr. G. Neil Perry made a report to the government on the strike, and the agreement signed at noon Monday was based on this report.

It gave road crews an extra two-per-cent pay boost for handling long trains. The PGE won the right to reduce some yard crews from three men to two — one of the original points at issue.

The two-per-cent increase brought the total wage increase to seven per cent. Current wages range from $450 to $650 a month for road crews, $2.53 an hour for yard foremen and $2.34 for yard helpers.

Mr. Broadbent said the strike cost the PGE $1,000,000 in revenue.

'Taste for Work' Judge's Recipe For Young Man

A 23-year-old man was told by Magistrate William Oster this morning that "there is nothing very much wrong with you that a little hard work won't cure."

The magistrate sentenced Kenneth Hodges, 291 Rosebank, to eight months in jail for false pretences.

He said that Hodges will have the chance to work in a forest camp "which will give you a taste for work."

Hodges earlier pleaded guilty to using a fictitious name to obtain goods at various city stores in the week before Christmas.

He gave himself up to police two weeks ago saying that he wanted to clear his conscience.

Banned Play Presented In Bookstore

ROME (AP) — A group of Italian actors bowed to a city government ban on The Deputy today after giving one performance of the controversial play behind the locked doors of a Rome bookstore.

The Rome prefecture banned the play by West German writer Rolf Hochhuth after the Vatican radio and newspaper attacked efforts by Gian Maria Volonte and a group of actors to stage the play. It questions whether Pope Pius XII did all he could to save the Jews from the Nazis.

"We made our point," said Volonte. "We wanted to show we had a right to put the play on here. We'll meet later to decide what to do next."

Volonte suggested his group might try to stage The Deputy outside Rome, since the ban applies only to the city.

Volonte's troupe tried first to present the play before an invited audience Saturday night in an improvised theatre. The police prevented that performance on the ground Volonte had not obtained a safety licence for a public gathering.

An invited audience of 150 — including journalists, critics and left-wing members of Parliament — was checked into the bookstore Monday.

the New York Public Library last December. While in the U.S. Air Force in 1956, Hoover said, Collier was convicted on a charge of slashing a man during a fight in London and received a less-than-honorable discharge.

Bowe, a native of Philadelphia, is also married and the father of one child. Currently employed as a judo instructor at the Henry Street Settlement House in New York City, he was a student at Howard University in Washington last year. Hoover said Bowe has been a supporter of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

In Montreal, Pierre Bourgault, president of the Rassemblement, said Miss Duolos had been a television commentator in that city and began working with his organization as a volunteer last May when she became a member.

He said in an interview she did office work for him and other officials of the party. He said he thinks she still is a member in good standing "but we haven't seen her now in three months and we were wondering where she was."

Mr. Bourgault said Miss Duolos is a "striking, tall, blonde" woman and that she was not generally known in Montreal for her political views but rather as a television personality.

"But she was devoted to the party and worked very hard for it," he said. "She was a fine woman and a solid supporter."

The Rassemblement has claimed a membership of 7,000, making it the largest separatist party in Quebec.

It aims to achieve independence for Quebec from the rest of Canada. Mr. Bourgault did not know whether Miss Duolos worked for any other political causes.

'Account Written In Blood'

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Knesset parliament called on the Israeli government Monday night to re-assess its relationships with West Germany because of the Bonn government's decision to cut off arms aid to Israel.

Bonn announced the move in an effort to dissuade the United Arab Republic from recognizing Communist East Germany.

By a vote of 54 to 26, the Knesset adopted a resolution expressing "astonishment and indignation" at the West German decision and describing it as a surrender to President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Premier Levi Eshkol said Israel would not accept West Germany's offer of money for the $15,000,000 worth of undelivered arms. Bonn agreed in 1960 to ship $80,000,000 worth of arms to Israel in addition to $825,000 in reparations for crimes committed against the Jews by the Nazis.

The account still pending between Jewish people and the German people — an account written in blood — goes far beyond the limits of the political and material spheres," Eshkol said.

"Surrender (to the U.A.R.) is not only wrong from the view of practical advantage, black-mail leads to further black-mail."

Nasser has put pressure on the West Germans to halt their arms shipments to Israel. Last month he announced plans for a six-day state visit to the U.A.R. by Communist East Germany's President Walter Ulbricht.

DIDN'T RENEW THREAT

West Germany claims the visit and the red-carpet welcome planned for Ulbricht will be tantamount to de facto recognition of the East German regime. The West German government threatened Monday to cut off about $190,000,000 in aid grants to the U.A.R. if Ulbricht's Feb. 24 visit comes off. But Bonn did not renew its previous threat to break diplomatic relations with Cairo.

Legion Flies Red Ensign

The Red Ensign will continue to fly over Royal Canadian Legion buildings until at least June, 1966.

William J. Kane, secretary manager of Britannia Branch No. 7, 1616 Blanshard, said Monday the ensign had been officially adopted as the Legion's flag at the last national convention held in Winnipeg last year.

"We could fly the new flag if we wished," Mr. Kane said. "But the Red Ensign is officially our flag and we shall continue to fly it over our buildings until a national vote dictates otherwise."

The next national convention is scheduled for Montreal in June, 1966.

While Victoria Legion members stood by the old flag other Legion branches across the country switched to the new maple leaf design.

Patrick Biggs, Ontario provincial secretary, said he felt "pretty sure" that the new flag would be adopted by the Legion next year.

QUEEN OF BURNABY

New B.C. Ferry First Ship Launched Under Leaf Flag

By RON SUDLOW
Times Marine Reporter

Although it is more or less routine to see new provincial ferries enter their element via Victoria Machinery Depot ways, the Queen of Burnaby still claimed a first Monday.

She was the first ship in Canada to be launched bearing the new maple leaf flag which fluttered jauntily from its jackstaff.

All but three of the 14 vessels constructed since the provincial government began building its own ferry fleet in 1958 have been built at VMD.

The new queen was sponsored by Mrs. Charles MacSorley, wife of the Social Credit M.L.A. from Burnaby.

Premier Bennett was on hand with civic officials from Burnaby, and Vancouver. Cabinet members, M.L.A.s, and a delegation of the B.C. Young Social Credit League also attended.

The new queen slid gracefully down the ways amid cheering, shouts and blasts from horns of ships and tugs in the area.

Mv. Coho of the Black Ball fleet paused off Ogden Point en route to Port Angeles to view the ceremony.

The Queen of Burnaby was the 125th major ship constructed at VMD.

She is 336 feet long, has a beam of 78 feet and a draught of 13 feet. Her twin screws are powered by two Mirreles main engines.

MACDONALD

Store Sales Of Beer, Wine Urged by NDP

A complete overhaul of provincial liquor laws—including the sale of beer and wine in grocery stores—was advocated by Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) Monday.

"Liquor reform does not mean more drinking," he told the legislature. "It may mean less (drinking) and certainly less drunkenness."

He said the main obstacles to a full-scale public inquiry aimed at liquor reform were the "fat campaign contributions to the Social Credit party" by vested interests.

He identified the vested interests as the major licensees who operate "huge barn-like beer parlors" and are only interested in "pushing as much beer into their customers as quickly as possible."

"We're in hook to these great beer factories and they're blocking reform."

Instead of having the noisy, crowded beer parlors, Mr. Macdonald said the province should encourage development of the quiet "local pub" known in Great Britain which he said was much more civilized than "twisting the drinking habits" of British Columbians for the profit of big beer parlor operators.

"We need another public inquiry into our liquor laws, with open hearings, and headed by two or three prominent citizens representative of industry, labor and the churches," he said.

STORE SALES
He said such an inquiry should examine the feasibility of allowing beer and wine to be sold in grocery stores instead of going through the "mumbo-jumbo" in government liquor stores.

As a result of the last liquor inquiry 13 years ago, "we were supposed to get a three-man liquor control board," noted Mr. Macdonald.

"Instead, we have had a one-man liquor czar (who) never holds hearings... never gives reasons for decisions... puts nothing in writing."

"That kind of a board is a Star Chamber setup, all the worse because it operates in darkest secrecy."

Mr. Macdonald said government policy does not spend enough of the liquor revenues to help alcoholics.

"We need not only reform of drinking habits but also special treatment centres, not jails, for alcoholics where they can be rehabilitated from what is a disease, not a crime."

He said the government "rakes in $33 million a year (in liquor revenues) but looks the other way when somebody mentions broken laws or broken lives."

SCROLL PRESENTED IN LEGISLATURE

All Parties Applaud Bennett Record

By JOHN MILKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A dewy-eyed Premier W. A. C. Bennett Monday thanked the legislature for its all-party tribute to his achievement of a new record in office.

An illuminated scroll signed by Speaker William Murray and backed by a unanimous vote of the M.L.A.s—was presented to him marking the day he broke the 4,581-day record of Sir Richard McBride who was premier of B.C. from 1903 until 1915.

It was Mr. Bennett's day—from the moment he strode into the chamber to be met by prolonged desk thumping from both sides of the House—until presentation of the scroll.

In the packed galleries, among several friends and rows of Young Socials, sat his wife and secretaries and on the floor of the House were his two sons, Russel and William.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan proposed the motion to present the scroll. It was seconded by Attorney-General Robert Bonner, probably the closest personal friend the premier has in the House, and was supported by Liberal leader Ray Perrault. They all described it as an historic moment.

"Usually, to a person in public life, words flow out," the premier slowly began his reply as all eyes centred on his motionless figure.

"But I find it difficult to speak," he admitted as the words came, hesitant and low. "My sons... warned me not to break down."

Pausing frequently, he went on:

"Criticism I can stand. Praise is more difficult to accept. But I would not be truthful, I would not be human, if I did not say that I appreciate more than words can ever say," the tributes voiced by Mr. Strachan, Mr. Perrault and Mr. Bonner.

Mr. Bennett said the province was in the middle of an exciting period of growth, built on sturdy foundations of previous administrations, which would shape the destiny of B.C.

He said he was thankful for suggestions from both sides of the legislature and from people of all parties outside of the house, which have helped form the current surge of development.

"I am certainly thankful... that I have been able to be a part of this period... we're all part of a period of great events and these events are happening so quickly that it is difficult for any of us to appreciate their significance."

Mr. Bennett paid tribute to his wife and staff for helping him bear the strains of office.

He chose to read only one congratulatory telegram out of the many pouring in. He read it with difficulty as his voice wavered through its message:

"Our sincerest congratulations on exceeding our father's tenure as premier of B.C.—the six daughters of Sir Richard McBride and their families."

He resumed his seat with the din of prolonged applause in his ears after thanking all "for your kindness today which will never be forgotten."

Mr. Strachan, who noted he had been opposition leader through most of the premier's 4,582 days in office up to Monday, said "this is an occasion in history and it is in this assembly that it can and should be most properly recognized and marked."

He said that the premier had to bear the greatest sacrifices in meeting the demands on all persons in the public life of the province.

"We may and often do disagree with his policies but this does not deter us from recognizing his worth or detract from his achievement today."

Mr. Strachan said one of the few areas in which the premier and he agreed was in their religious background including the shorter catechism and the Scottish version of the psalms.

WITH PURPOSE

"Today, the premier can say with purpose the words of the Twenty-third Psalm as we both know it:

"My table thou has furnished in presence of my foes, my head thou dost anoint with oil, and my cup overflows."

Mr. Strachan wished the premier long life, good health and a full measure of happiness—and to ringing laughter added a hope that he would be elevated to the Senate "and immediately."

Later, Mr. Bonner picked up the quip and added to the laughter.

"We have many notions relating to senate reforms and this is not one of them," he said.

Mr. Perrault, in his speech, capped the running joke by saying he would gladly "phone Ottawa" to recommend a Senate seat for the premier if he only would go.

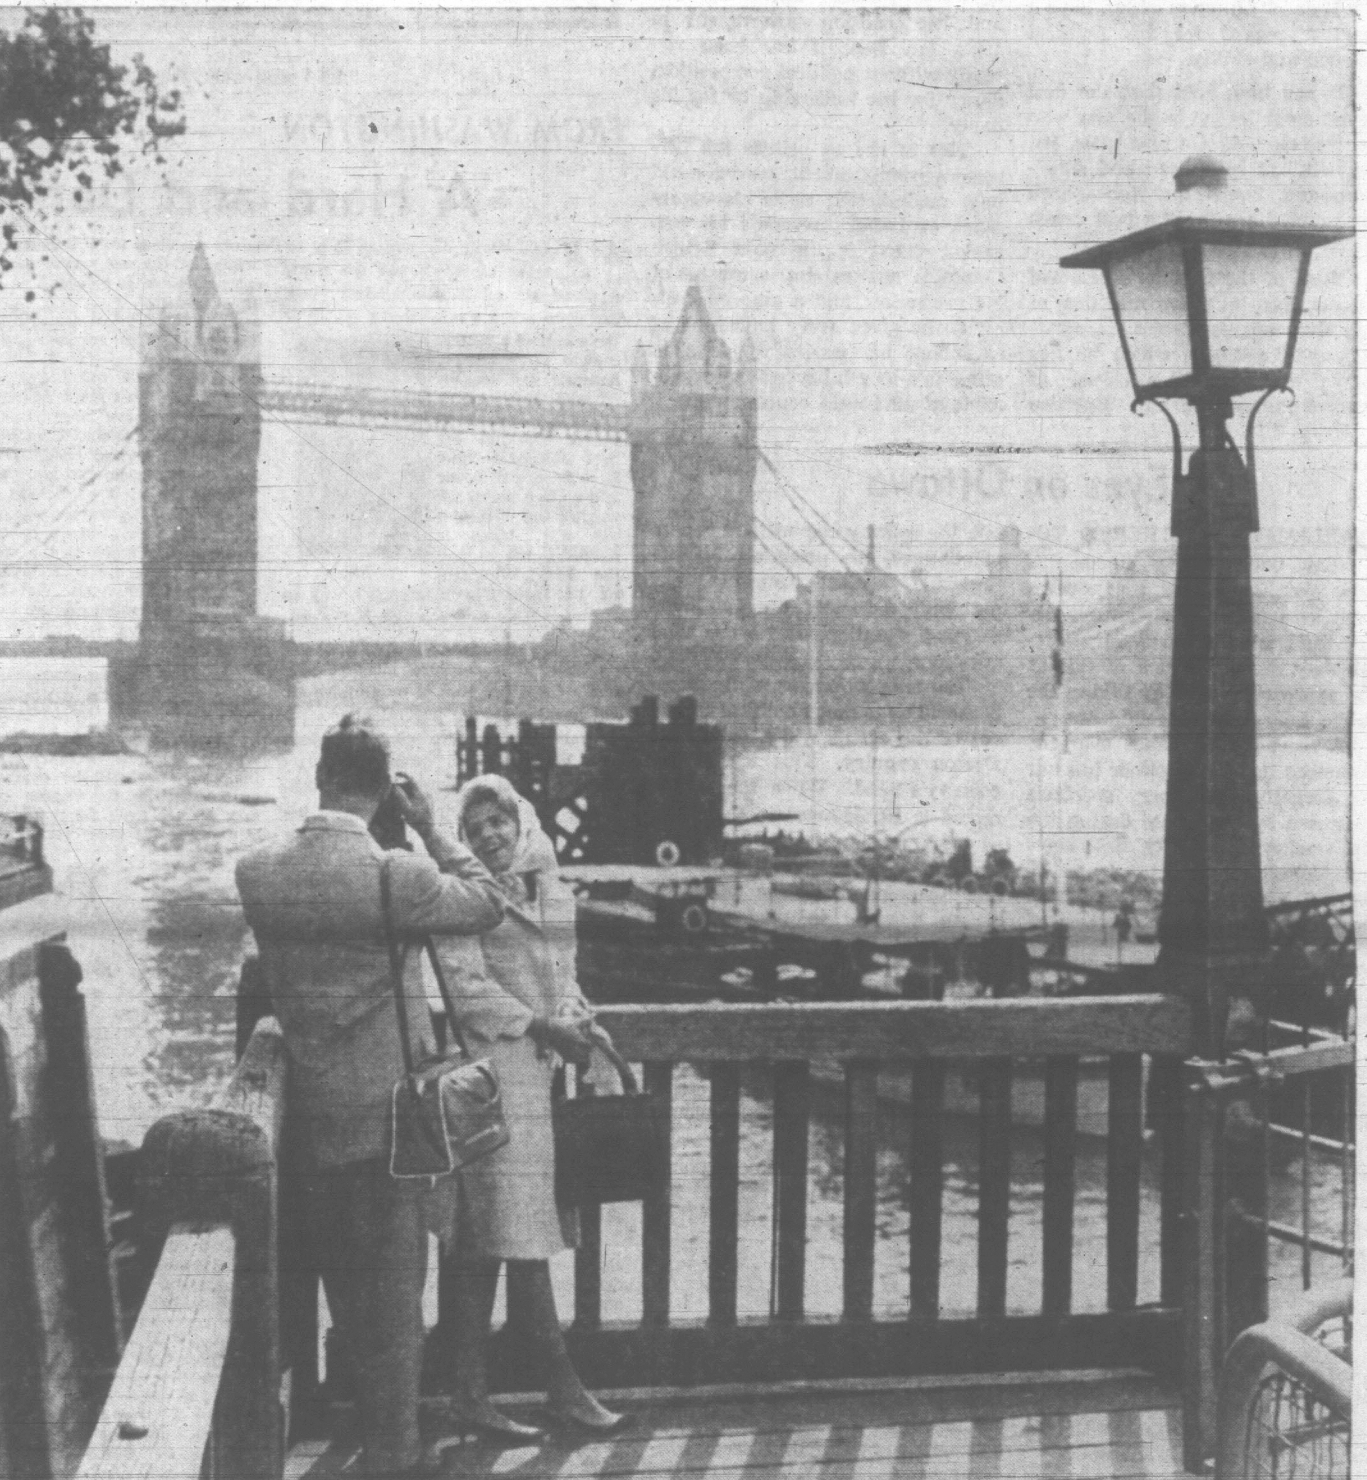

Mr. Bonner said he found difficulty in adequately seconding the motion "so generously and fittingly proposed by the leader of the opposition."

He recalled some of the events of Mr. Bennett's administration so far and pointed out that many members have come and gone during the past 12½ years. He said only the premier and Arthur Turner of the NDP were members during coalition days and only eight on the government side and seven on the opposition side were present when Mr.

Bennett began his administration.

Mr. Perrault said it was an historic occasion "and I'm glad we are civilized enough that we can on an occasion like this drop our partisan differences and acknowledge that which should be acknowledged."

"We wish him well on this day, continuing health, continuing happiness... but not necessarily continuing political success."

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

And Still Going Strong

THE PEOPLE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, regardless of political affiliation, are paying tributes this week to Premier W. A. C. Bennett, whose career of more than twelve consecutive years as leader of the government sets a record for this province.

Many of the congratulations come from Social Credit Party adherents, for whom Mr. Bennett can do no wrong. Others come from opponents who, while differing from the Premier on many issues, have a genuine regard for his political acumen and ability.

It has been said that the best government leader is the one who can get elected. On that basis, Mr. Bennett has been head and shoulders—and bootstraps, too—above his competitors for the past dozen years.

Much of the Premier's personal success lies in those qualities of initiative, aggressiveness, imagination and leadership which he has shown throughout his career as head of the government. But two other factors—and Mr. Bennett would be the first to recognize this, if not to admit it—have formed an important background to his triumphal appearance on British Columbia's legislative stage. First, he has had the inestimable boon of an almost uninterrupted run of basic industrial and commercial prosperity in this province since taking office, quite above that which might be ascribed to the effects of government policy. Secondly, since the defeat of Premier Byron Johnson and his coalition government in 1952, Mr. Bennett has been virtually without political competition, either for his leadership or for his party.

This is not to belittle his personal accomplishment; no one could have made better use of his advantages or better overcome his setbacks. That is the man British Columbia now salutes: a master of his profession, and a vigorous veteran who gives every indication of extending his record of days in office to a length beyond the attainment of all future contestants.

Eyes on Ottawa

PARLIAMENT GATHERED TODAY under heavy clouds. A dark one hangs over the government as a result of disclosures before the Dorion enquiry. Mr. Pearson may dissipate much of this at the appropriate time by taking the public fully into his confidence.

A second cloud hangs over the Commons itself—the public has not yet forgotten the sorry spectacle presented by the House during the last session when petty dissensions and bickering, much of it to be charged against Mr. Diefenbaker, seriously retarded the progress of the nation's business. This cloud, too, may be lifted by a firm display of statesmanship during the days ahead.

There is no dearth of important business for Parliament's consideration. Without any chance of hiding themselves in oratorical folds of the flag—a contentious issue now fortunately settled—the legislators will have no excuse for not giving full priority to such matters as the country's finances, the pensions bill, the railway committee's recommendations, the proposals for nationwide medical insurance, our position in a rapidly changing international situation, and other vital questions.

The temptation for many members will be to make political capital out of the events which led to the Dorion enquiry. This is not the country's need. When the Dorion report is issued—and it should be as quickly as is consonant with justice and accuracy—there should be full discussion of all the facts, not as an exercise in parliamentary sniping, but as a serious examination of matters which directly affect the core of our administration of government in this country.

If the debate degenerates into pre-election campaign sparring the public—already worried and restive—will take note. And the clouds may descend still lower on Parliament Hill, to the permanent political obscurity of those who do not accept their national responsibilities.

'Association With Beauty'

THE INTERNATIONAL forces of conservation find support in high places—in the United States from President Johnson.

He has recently buttressed his plea for preservation or restoration of natural beauty with recommendations for reservation of more natural land for recreational purposes and attacks on water pollution.

"Association with beauty," says the president, "can enlarge man's imagination and revive his spirit. What a citizen sees every day is his America. If it is attractive it adds to the quality of his life. If it is ugly it can degrade his existence."

This, of course, is a truism which applies not only to Americans. It expresses a conviction a large number of Canadians share. And it is an expression of faith that needs constant repetition as the forces of so-called progress and industrial development crowd further into the natural heritage of this country.

Water purification as well as acquisition of new park land and wilderness areas involves heavy expense. The costs can be materially reduced if the developments which spoil beauty are nipped in the bud—an argument which applies with particular significance in British Columbia at this time.

As in the case of so many ills, prevention is the best cure, and in this instance, by far the least costly.

Pointing Up Bilingualism

AN INTERESTING POINT REGARDING the use of Canada's two official languages in formal inquiries—and presumably courts—has been raised before Chief Justice Dorion in Ottawa. It is an issue seldom brought to the notice of Canadians in this part of the country.

The matter arose when a lawyer attending the Dorion hearings asked that answers to questions be delayed until the questions had been translated into English for his consideration. The lawyer did not consider himself competent in French. He was alone among bilingually fluent members of his profession at the inquiry.

In this part of the world, when a person of alien tongue testifies under oath, an interpreter is provided to assure his understanding of questions and to translate his replies. This is taken as a practical safeguard for the non-English-speaking person. But if anything is said in the court, as it frequently is, without translation, the individual who does not understand the language is handicapped.

This appears to be an unavoidable obstacle in most cases, and serious efforts are made to overcome it. However, when French is used alternatively to English a somewhat different situation arises. Since both are official languages, there should be no disadvantage suffered by anyone who speaks only one of the tongues.

In this particular field of Canadian understanding, the Dorion commission presents a reminder to most residents of the west that they have certain linguistic deficiencies. But these deficiencies must never be allowed to place the person who speaks only one language at a disadvantage in any formal proceedings.

"All I said was: 'Hi, Colonel... what's new...?'"

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

A Hard and Dangerous Road

AS THESE words are written it is by no means clear whether the richly deserved air retaliations against North Viet Nam are the results of a spasm or the result of a policy.

Simple tit-for-tat, however well executed and dramatically presented, and however essential the first tit-for-tat may have been, can never add up to a policy for waging the Vietnamese war. What is needed is not to hurt the North Vietnamese, but to hurt them in such a way as will bring them to see reason in the end.

For this purpose, the minimum requirement is a carefully planned, prudently dosed program of progressive air and naval pressure. Several alternative programs of this sort must long since have been prepared during the interminable period of contingency planning.

The churning in the government betokens division between those who wish to go on with tit-for-tat and those who wish to begin to execute a coherent plan. Important among the latter are the joint chiefs of staff who have warned the president that in their opinion nothing less than a coherent operational program can produce results.

The choice is of desperate importance, since continued tit-for-tat will almost certainly lead to disaster in one way or another. The odds on the right choice being made would appear to be a bit better than even—say about seven to five—at the moment. But if the right choice has not been made before these words see print, it will be a bad augury.

Assumption

Let us assume the right American choice is indeed made. The next question, coming even before the North Vietnamese response, is how the Soviets and the Chinese Communists will respond to a program of progressive air and naval pressure on North Viet Nam. The Soviets, to begin with, will almost certainly engage in all sorts of verbal demonstrations and will also begin to ship additional weapons to North Viet Nam. But words are harmless, and weapons shipments are both time-consuming and relatively ineffectual.

The serious lines of action open to the Soviets are to bring pressure on an exposed western flank—by threatening the Berlin access routes, for example—or to proceed to a nuclear showdown.

Gain From Cuba

With all fingers crossed one may quote the odds against the nuclear showdown as too much to be worth discussing. And one may give the odds against something like a renewal of the Berlin crisis as at least five to one, perhaps seven to one. So much we gained from the wise handling of the Cuban missile crisis in October, 1962.

The Chinese are a different matter. They are shouting in Peking about "volunteers for North Viet Nam." But, in fact, the North Vietnamese will certainly not want to be invaded by ground armies of Chinese volunteers who cannot help them to ward off U.S. air and naval pressure.

The probable Chinese intentions have long since been revealed, meanwhile, by the known pattern of their preparations. Despite the warning of the Gulf of Tonkin they have made no preparations whatever to move large ground forces. Thus, the odds against Chinese intervention on the ground would seem to be somewhat between two and four to one.

Since the Gulf of Tonkin, however, the Chinese have moved several hundred aircraft to their southern bases, besides giving a few more to the North Vietnamese. Thus, the odds favor Chinese air support for North Viet Nam. But this will be a mere gesture (although a pretty expensive gesture) if American airpower is anything like what it should be.

Conditioned Response

Finally, there are the North Vietnamese who must be taken last because their response will be overwhelmingly conditioned by the degree of support they receive from the two big brothers. If they receive mere verbal encouragement, plus Soviet arms, plus Chinese air aid, how will they respond to the U.S. program of pressure?

They have only two possible responses. They can try to change the pattern of the war, and thereby perhaps entangle their big brothers, by sending their considerable regular army into South Viet Nam or Laos or both countries.

Leave Neighbors Alone

Or they can take note of the American assurances—which are vital and must be stressed—that the U.S. pressure is solely aimed to persuade them to let their neighbors alone and by no means aimed to destroy the North Vietnamese state. And they can see the reason and do what their interest will quite obviously dictate.

On a cold but hopeful calculation, the odds are a little better than even that the North Vietnamese will reason in these circumstances. But review all foregoing quotations of odds. They mean we have set our feet on a hard and dangerous road. There was no other road to take, but there should be no illusions about this road's character.

The Only Sane Way

From an Editorial in the New York Times

PRESIDENT JOHNSON has in the past denied that the United States, has any intention of carrying the war to North Viet Nam. Yet he considered it necessary in the past few days to help the South Vietnamese raid North Viet Nam twice. Since it is not to be expected that the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam will cease their attacks or their tactics, and since Peking and Moscow are committed to help Hanoi, the dangers of the future are only too obvious.

The Americans working on the Vietnamese problem in Washington and Saigon must often feel as if the problems have a nightmarish or fourth dimensional quality. Western ideas, modes of thought and methods do not function as it seems that they logically should. Mortars and bombs do speak a universal language; but they may ultimately lead to the unthinkable conclusions of a nuclear war.

The only sane way out is diplomatic, international, political, economic—not military. A solution will not be found by exchanging harder and harder blows, surrender is out of the question and "victory" for either side is impossible.

Perhaps a new start can be made from an untried base—that Americans, Vietnamese, Chinese and Russians are all sensible human beings who are ready for peace in Southeast Asia, or at least willing to consider it. There would be prices to pay, but there would be gains as well as losses. Diplomacy is surely not yet a lost art or a dead language.

RISK OF A TANGLE

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

Threads for Moscow's Weaving

THE Russian presence in Hanoi at the time of the first American air-raid highlighted one of the most complicated essays in multi-linear diplomacy that it is possible to imagine.

The threads which Mr. Alexei Kosygin, the Soviet Prime Minister, and his colleagues are trying to keep in their hands are so numerous and winding that they must have the utmost difficulty in distinguishing one strand from another, one end from another, and keeping them from getting into a monstrous tangle.

When, after Cuba, Mr. Khrushchev virtually turned his back on Southeast Asia, he was inaugurating a situation which could not last indefinitely. In his determination not to be dragged by the Chinese, or Chinese-backed irresponsibles, into another major confrontation with America, he quite simply abandoned the field; more than this, he found himself relying on the American presence to check Chinese expansion in that unhappy theatre. This dependence of the Russians on American power in Southeast Asia, which they formally anathematize, is the basic paradox of the whole situation.

China Strengthened

One of the obvious results of Russia's negative attitude towards the fighting Communists in Viet Nam and elsewhere was an increase in the power of China to attract Communists fighting for their existence in all the backward areas of the globe. Strategic considerations apart (the Americans could look after those), unless Moscow was to acquiesce in Chinese claims to moral overlordship in Southeast Asia and to revolutionary leadership in Africa and Latin America, the Russians had to start reasserting themselves in North Viet Nam, North Korea, Laos and elsewhere. The increasingly divided state of the world Communist movement in the matter of the Sino-Soviet dispute had shown all too clearly how much ground had lately been lost by Moscow.

Thus Mr. Kosygin in his travels had a number of distinct and sometimes self-contradictory objectives. To assure the Southeast Asian Communists that the Soviet Union was still with them and that Peking was not their only support and stay; to demonstrate to those Communists everywhere attracted by China's downright language (rather than behavior) and repelled by Soviet preoccupation with home comforts and security that Moscow was still fit to be the headquarters of the Communist world; to demonstrate to the Chinese themselves that the Soviet Union still had a stake in Asia; at the same time to take advantage of any possible shift in Chinese policy under American pressure to restore an appearance of unity between the two Communist giants.

Tacit Understanding

All these objectives had to be achieved, under the umbrella of a tacit understanding with Washington and in the knowledge that there could be no lasting, no real agreement with the Chinese.

Up to the Individual

Excerpts from an address by President Malcolm Taylor, University of Victoria, delivered recently at the University of B.C.

WE LIVE now in the Big Society, the age of big city, big business, big government, big labor, big professions, big university. And all these have consequence for the autonomy—the independence and creativity—of the individual.

The chief characteristic of modern life, one that even in space-rich Canada is increasing at an accelerating rate, is the concentration of people in large cities. And the concentration seems to be taking place, like so many developments in contemporary life, for its own sake, and not to facilitate the achievement of the human aims it is supposed to serve.

The objective is to have the tallest skyscraper, the largest bank, the largest stadium, the largest department store, the largest university. But the resulting congestion of traffic, despite more bridges, tunnels and freeways, simply reduces the amount of space available for any purpose other than transportation—and, of course, without really solving the traffic problem.

In 1900 horse-drawn traffic moved through New York at 11.4 miles per hour; today traffic moves at about 6 m.p.h. The result has been an escape to suburbia, areas that are themselves without form as communities, areas cut off from the central cultural core of the city, which itself becomes a focal point of urban blight and decay.

Now, as we all recognize, large-scale organization demands the bureaucratic form of structure. The bureaucratic form is characterized by fixed and official jurisdictional areas, principles of hierarchy in which higher officers supervise lower ones, administration by full-time trained experts, administration based on written documents, and administration in accordance with general rules. As the leading theorist on the subject, Max Weber, stressed, bureaucratic organization is absolutely essential for the modern state and the modern corporation. It is justifiable chiefly by its technical superiority over all other forms of organization.

Less Satisfaction

From the point of view of the individual, however, although large-scale organizations have brought a rising standard of material living, they have provided decreasing job satisfaction as work has become a mere means to other ends. "The good of the organization" always tends to become the highest value, and this frequently has the effect of encouraging anxiety and self-alienation as the individual comes to have a feeling of helplessness and frustration. Personal freedom and growth decline in the face of centralized power and decision-making. Again, the individual feels that he, as well as his work, has become the means rather than the end.

I think it essential that all of us as individuals examine our own lives to see whether the maturity of increasing years has dampened the freshness of our outlook, narrowed our conception of our resources and abilities, reduced our willingness to take risks, curtailed our desire to learn and grow, and immobilized our ability to love the good and the beautiful.

All of these can easily happen; but they do not need to, for they are matters for the individual to determine for himself. But we must consciously decide and not simply drift. Each of us must make certain that he is striving for meaningful goals, that he is a participant in life and has not succumbed to the role of spectator. And this is largely a matter of personal attitude and determination.

Thus the paradox of Khrushchev's situation remains. The American presence in Southeast Asia is necessary to the Russians in their wrestling match with Peking—and yet, no matter what private understanding may exist between Moscow and Washington, the Russians cannot be absolutely sure that American reprisals against North Viet Nam may not escalate into full-scale war; and this at the moment when, as an aspect of the wrestling match, the Soviet Prime Minister has found it expedient to reassociate Moscow with Hanoi.

Unknowns

There are plenty of unknowns: to what extent are the Viet Cong in their attacks on American installations working under the immediate direction of the government of North Viet Nam, or of the government of the Chinese Republic? Are the Chinese deliberately seeking to punish Mr. Kosygin for his presumption by embroiling him in war between America and North Viet Nam? Why did Mao Tse-tung go out of his way to receive Mr. Kosygin on his return from Hanoi—his first meeting with a Soviet leader since 1959? And to what extent are Soviet high policy manoeuvres being distorted by the quite obvious increase in military influence in the Kremlin during the past two months (Marshal Zhukov has been tacitly rehabilitated; the press has been full of articles about the role of the modern army; the marshals have lately shown themselves much more).

Mr. Kosygin himself knows the answer to some of these questions. Does he know the answers to enough of them to steer a true course, however tortuous? Does he want to meet President Johnson as much as President Johnson wants to meet him? There are plenty of signs that he does, that, for example, his display of interest in Southeast Asia is intended also to bring home the urgency of an East-West summit meeting. But is he, are he and Mr. Leonid Brezhnev, First Secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, as completely in control of Soviet policy as we have become used to expect from the leaders of that highly centralized land?

Looking Back

From The Times of Feb. 16, 1890.

San Francisco

Reports reaching here from Queensland, Australia, show the colony has suffered one of the worst floods in its history. Rain fell for eight successive days. More than four feet of water covered many square miles of valuable ranches. More than a score of fatalities have been reported. Glastonbury Creek, a small stream, was suddenly swollen and descended on settlers in a solid wall of water 20 feet high. A mother and two children were swept away.

"I BET HE THINKS YOU'RE HIS GRANDPA, TOO!"

HO CHI MINH IN COMMAND

Bearded Leftist Plagues U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—Four shadowy Marxists hold sway over a little-known corner of Southeast Asia that has become a direct adversary of the United States.

Chief of North Viet Nam's Communist hierarchy is Ho Chi Minh, 74, a straggly-bearded revolutionary who master-minded Indochina's victorious war of independence from France 11 years ago.

One of the most skillful leaders of the Communist world, Ho is a great commander as well as the country's greatest patriot.

From his headquarters in Hanoi, Ho directs a guerrilla force of perhaps 25,000 Viet Cong who range the deltas and forests of South Viet Nam ambushing patrols and shooting up military installations. Backing the guerrilla force is the regular North Vietnamese army which U.S. sources estimate at about 250,000 men.

When he smashed France's colonial forces in 1954, Ho expected to dictate terms to the defeated French. But Soviet pressure forced him to postpone total control of Viet Nam in favor of a divided country.

MOVED AGAINST SOUTH

In 1959, convinced that unity could never be achieved, Ho began the guerrilla campaign against the south.

Though he is known as Ho Chi Minh, the name is not his real one. He has gone by many aliases since he was born in Nghe An, North Annam, part of Indochina, in 1890. He left Indochina in 1911 as a cabin boy aboard a French merchant ship and is said to have spent some time in the United States before going to Paris where he joined the French Socialist party.

He spent much time in European jails for his radical views. In 1919, he became a founding member of the French Communist party and wrote a book on French colonialism that inflamed young patriots in Indochina and made him a hero to his countrymen.

During the Second World War, he made his way to China. At that time the allies used revolutionary movements in Indochina to spy against the Japanese, and Ho convinced them he was ideal for the job.

When the war ended, Ho had a well equipped underground army and set up headquarters in Hanoi.

HAD ABSOLUTE CONTROL

During the years of war, he dated anyone who threatened his power and at the time of victory in 1954 he was in absolute control of that nationalist movement.

Then came the division of the country. Today North Viet Nam is caught in an uneasy power balance between pro-Chinese and pro-Russian factions. Ho has maintained a precarious balancing act between the two factions, realizing that he need the aid of both Moscow and Peking for his lagging industrial program and the help of both in his battle against South Viet Nam.

His death would undoubtedly cause a power struggle.

The likeliest contenders are Premier Pham Van Dong, a political fighter in his early 60s;

Gen Vo Nguyen Giap, minister of defence and hero of the victory over the French at Dien Bien Phu, and Ho's protégé, Le Duan, secretary-general of the Communist party.

Pham, an oldtime revolutionary who was in and out of jails as a Red agitator while Indochina was under the French, became premier in 1956 when Ho was named president.

Before that he held posts as foreign minister and deputy premier and was generally regarded as No. 2 man in the Hanoi hierarchy.

FAVORS THE RUSSIANS

Pham headed the rebel delegation to the 1954 Geneva conference which ended the Indochina war and divided Viet Nam into two parts. He is regarded as more favorable to the Russians than the Chinese.

Giap has been regarded lately as leader of the pro-Russian faction, but he modelled his hit-run military strategy along Chinese lines.

Giap, 53, graduated at the head of his class from Hanoi University law school. He also had a thorough grounding in Chinese military schools. He directed the battle of Dien Bien Phu.

Manager Plan To Be Pushed For Schools

Notice of a motion to employ a school board manager was made at the Greater Victoria School Board meeting Monday.

Trustee Lloyd Clarkson told the board he would make the move at the next meeting.

The proposal formed part of Mr. Clarkson's election platform in December.

At the time he said hiring a school board manager would allow the school superintendent to concentrate on education matters and the secretary-treasurer to concentrate on financial matters.

Mao's creed of war called for three stages against the foe. Guerrilla warfare, organized but mobile fighting, then a general offensive by trained troops. Giap's campaign still appears to be in the second stage, but it could move into the final one.

The fourth member of the hierarchy, Party Secretary-General Le Duan, is a close friend and protégé of Ho. He also plays a key role in the Chinese-Soviet ideological dispute and came out about a year ago in support of the hard Peking line.

Shastri In Trouble Over Hindi

NEW DELHI (AP)—A demand for Prime Minister Shastri's resignation as a means of ending India's bloody language riots portends trouble for Shastri when Parliament opens its annual budget session Wednesday.

Left-wing Socialist Leader Ram Manohar Lohia, a former member of Shastri's governing Congress party, told a rally in the south India town of Secunderabad that India's minority language areas would get "justice and equality" only if a non-Hindi-speaking man is prime minister. Shastri's mother tongue is Hindi.

Lohia has only a small following in Parliament, but Shastri's support in his own party has been visibly weakened by the weeks of rioting in southern India protesting the proclamation of Hindi as India's only official language.

VIOLENCE SPREADS

The violence spread Monday to Andhra Pradesh State. Two persons were killed and six were injured when police fired on a mob of about 10,000 persons setting fire to the North Nellore railway station. A curfew was put on the town and all schools were closed.

Andhra Pradesh is north of Madras State, where nearly 60 persons died in rioting earlier. Madras is a Tamil-speaking area. The outbreak of violence in Andhra, where Telugu is spoken, indicated the anti-Hindi trouble might spread to all the minority language areas of India.

New Look To Postmen Next Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's 11,500 postmen will get a new navy blue uniform by April 1, 1966, the post office department announced Monday.

The traditional midnight blue buttoned jacket will be replaced by a zippered tunic designed to fit comfortably and look less formal and military than the present 50-year-old issue.

The familiar red piping on the jacket has disappeared, but it has been retained on trousers. The hat is softer, less rigid and has a smaller visor.

The new uniform also features a gold, 11-point maple leaf on the shoulder badge.

Executives of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, who were shown the new uniform last week, reacted "most favorably," the post office said.

Suspend Constable

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Chief Ralph Booth will recommend to the police commission the dismissal of the force of Const. Ron McGill, president of the policemen's union. He was suspended from the force Monday on a charge laid under the force's disciplinary code.

LESAGE still criticized

'Best of Both Sides Used in New Policies'

MONTREAL (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage Sunday described himself as a politician of the "centre left" who has tried to take the best from both sides.

Mr. Lesage told the Quebec Student-Liberal-Federation he believes the "centre left" represents the most dynamic element of Quebec society.

He said politics is "truly the art of the possible" and problems must be appreciated with realism.

"Some feel such a point of view only engenders passivity and conformity but I don't," he said. "It is the policy we have followed since 1960 and God knows how many reforms have resulted."

Land of Peanuts a Nation

LONDON (AP)—On Thursday Britain will close out the last sliver of its African empire between the Mediterranean and the Zambesi River.

With all the traditional fanfare and fireworks, the old colony of Gambia, with its 316,000 inhabitants, will become free and independent, a member of the Commonwealth and a candidate for a seat in the United Nations.

With Gambia free, only four territories of Britain's once-immense holdings in Africa will be awaiting their liberation—Rhodesia, Bechuanaland, Swaziland and Basutoland, all at the southern end of the continent.

Gambia is a slender finger of land and river almost surrounded by Senegal on the western bulge of Africa.

Gambia is so small—4,000 square miles—and its economic base so fragile that there were serious doubts about its ability to survive.

Gambia literally lives from peanuts, producing about 70,000 tons a year. They represent 90 per cent. of the country's exports.

ON THE TIMES

Talking About Indians

WHENEVER I have discussed Indians with Wilson Duff he has listened courteously and generally offered a quiet comment: "I don't think it's quite like that, Art."

Then, very gently he has drawn my attention to certain misconceptions I have harbored. Wilson has never told me that I don't know what I'm talking about. He has left me to make that discovery.

There should be less reason for error on my part now. I have just read Volume 1, "The Impact of the White Man" in Wilson's Indian History of British Columbia, a provincial museum publication printed by the Queen's Printer.

In excellent prose, it tells a lot of us who are relatively, or sentimentally, interested in the Indian a lot of the things we ought to know. And it should arm us with facts to take the place of the suppositions on which some of us have been basing our arguments.

I belong to that substantial portion of the population which has a heart full of good will toward the native—at least speculatively. People like me very often raise our voices to call for a better deal for the Indians. We are not happy with the conditions in which so many of them find themselves and we'd like to see something done to make it easier for them to enjoy a higher standard of life in our affluent society.

Quite recently I graduated from the ranks of those who demanded action to make the earlier inhabitants full Canadians—assuming that given a chance, the Indian would want to be as we are. This is a form of unconscious super-racism of which many are guilty. We just aren't aware of the possibility that being like us isn't what the Indian desires. Not that we are blind to our own faults. But we tend to think that if the natives reached our standards—became copies of us—then we could all go ahead together correcting the flaws in our shared society.

Wilson Duff has confirmed the opinion that has been pressed upon me in recent years. It is that desirable as we may consider our own way of life, our own goals, our own standards, they don't necessarily appeal to other people. He points out, too, that Indians have difficulty in transforming themselves into the kind of humans we are because their culture and economy have been so vastly different.

Another friend of mine brought that home to me with some force the other day. He was discussing the Indian of the northern territories. Up there, my friend told me, the Indian looks with amazement at the wealthy white man who has flown up from some metropolis in the United States—at great expense and inconvenience—to fish one of the wilderness streams or lakes. The white man assembles his tackle and then either casts or trolls with one rod; one line and one hook for one fish at a time—and he does this for fun.

The northern Indian, my friend explained, is completely puzzled because he has never fished for fun in his life. He fished because he needed food and he used the method which produced the most fish for the least effort in the shortest time.

If the white man wants fish, why, wonders the Indian, doesn't he take a net to the job and catch 50 times as many as he can with one lure on one line. And anyhow, what's the enjoyment in fishing?

Wilson doesn't go into the white man's Isaac Waltonism. But he does show how approaches to different objectives in living, in art forms, in economics, in the whole business of getting along with the country, are so different that the two peoples scarcely make contact in many areas.

Beyond this, he sets down facts, not suppositions, that give a person interested in "helping" the Indian something to work on. In the process he creates an appreciation for the Indian that rests on something more stable than sentimentality.

For anybody interested in the native from the standpoint of ethics, morals or land claims—I'd say that Volume I is excellent. The presentation doesn't leave much to be desired either.

THIRD PLANT SOUGHT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has been asked to approve construction of a third large power plant at Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River in Washington state.

The interior department said the new plant would cost $361,000,000 and would generate 3,600,000 kilowatts from 12 generators. The department said the plant would nearly treble the generating capacity at Grand Coulee to 5,600,000 kilowatts, largest in the world.

The department said the plant would utilize more fully increased flows on the Columbia resulting from upstream dams in British Columbia to be built under the Canada-United States Columbia River Treaty.

Part of this new block of power would be used in the U.S. Pacific Northwest. The remainder would be transmitted on the recently authorized high-voltage line to southern points, including California.

Miss Prism Phyllis Gaskell

All supporters of amateur theatre in Victoria should be grateful to St. Matthias Little Theatre Society and director Vera Trueman for reviving on the local stage this witty and wonderfully artificial comedy. It lampoons the manners and social values of a bygone age but with such genius that it strikes like a fresh and slightly intoxicating breeze on every meeting.

There is so much to delight one in the play itself, and certain virtues in Mrs. Trueman's production that make it seem hard lines to find fault.

However, this being Victoria's only entry this year in the Dominion Drama Festival (as well as St. Matthias Little Theatre's first), an objective appraisal becomes necessary.

High on the credit side, one must place the costuming, design and execution by Mimi Robertson who is to be congratulated particularly on style and detail.

WELL HANDLED

Stage movement and grouping was satisfactory, voices were generally good and the rapier lines were well handled by a largely experienced cast.

Problems in casting appropriately were obvious, especially on the male side, where experience and talent did not in all cases compensate for physical and stylistic inadequacies.

One of the best characterizations of the evening came from veteran Ken Bostock who drew a perfect cameo portrait of a rustic clergyman.

HONORS SHARED

Jennifer Allen and Rita Coe share honors for being delightful to look at and achieving the elegant charm and brittle qualities of their figurine personalities.

A strong, authoritative performance, that still somehow lacks the true grand dame manner.

ner, came from Jennifer Chatter, Phyllis Gaskell's role gives her limited scope but it is correctly keyed, well-paced performance.

The two most difficult parts—of two young men of fashion in the emerging Edwardian period—have extremely competent actors in Richard Litt and Stanley Bowles, but neither one is entirely comfortable in this genre piece.

MAIN WEAKNESS

Settings are the production's greatest weakness. The futuristic, near-carnival effect of the scenic units, particularly in Acts one and three, create a violent style-clash with the period which is so well reflected in the costumes.

The comedy opened Monday and will be seen each night this week at St. Matthias Hall, corner Richardson and Richmond Streets, with curtain at 8:15.

THREE YEAR GROWTH EXPLOSION

P. G. ROPCHAN
President

The North West Life Assurance Company was founded in Vancouver, B.C., in 1956. In August, 1961, the Company came under new management and under a new Board of Directors.

In just three years, the total insurance and annuities in force of the North West Life Assurance Company have increased 616 per cent, and the level of new business has improved 500 per cent. In the same period, Company assets have increased 349 per cent.

In the three years since that time, six new branch offices have been opened and two general agencies appointed. Plans are now underway for the expansion of the Company's operations eastward into Ontario and Quebec.

We are extremely grateful to North West Life policyholders and shareholders and to our well-trained corps of administrative and sales personnel for having made the Company's three year growth explosion a reality. We are optimistic that ensuing years will be even more successful. Already in January, 1965, business recorded was up 37 per cent over the same month in 1964.

BOY WINS BOOKS WITH ANDY QUERY

A Grade 4 Marigold School pupil who likes social studies today won a set of the World Book Encyclopedia for a question submitted to Ask Andy in the Times.

Stephen Bell, 609 Lambie Drive, asked the question: "Is the Dead Sea a lake or inlet. It is answered in the column below."

The boy, over a period of months, submitted eight questions to Ask Andy before winning a prize. Now he is going to try for a Hammond Atlas or globe.

"I'm certainly pleased at winning this set of encyclopedia," he said. "It will help me in my studies."

Stephen likes to read about explorers. It is his favorite subject. He is also fond of science and arithmetic.

He also likes fishing and making boats out of balsam wood.

He has one sister, Lenore, 5, who is attending kindergarten.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Stephen Bell, age 11, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

Is the Dead Sea a lake or an inlet?

The Holy Land of the Bible lies at the eastern end of the warm, blue Mediterranean Sea. Through it flows the River Jordan made famous in many of the Bible stories. And the Jordan empties its water into the low-lying, salty body of water called the Dead Sea.

The Dead Sea is surrounded by land, by hot and dry desert land on every side. For this reason a strict geographer would call it a lake. The Mediterranean and many other seas are connected with the world-wide system of linking oceans. The Dead Sea has no inlet or outlet that connects it with the global oceans. We cannot call it an inlet for its salty waters are barricaded from the salty waters of the major seas by wide stretches of dry land.

From the point of view of geography, we might argue that the Dead Sea is not even a sea. It is only 10 miles wide and some 48 miles long, and its total

Fish Die In Salty Sea

The surface of the Dead Sea is 1,300 feet below the sea level of the Mediterranean. Its surface became lower as it shrank from its former area, and it is now the lowest body of water in the world. As it shrank, its glassy surface also became saltier. It is fed by streams and rivers, by hot and cool springs, and all this fresh water bears traces of dissolved chemicals. Day by day water vapor escapes from the surface, leaving the salts behind. The waters of the Dead Sea are six times saltier than the world oceans and getting saltier every day.

The Dead Sea is not an inlet of the world ocean, and properly speaking it may not even be a sea. But it certainly is a dead body of water. No birds hover

McPherson Works Qualify for Aid

The federal labor department Monday approved McPherson Playhouse expansion projects—restaurant and scene loft—worth $135,000 as "qualified winter works jobs."

The work will get $25,000 assistance from the federal government. Meanwhile, the provincial legislature is asked to approve borrowing the money pending receipt of McPherson estate money.

HE SEES MORE, SPENDS LESS BY BLUFFS

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—A 23-year-old Londoner today claimed he bluffed his way from Britain to South Africa on a two-cent railway ticket.

Graham Turvell told the Johannesburg Sunday Times that his two-cent trip began at Waterloo Station in Britain where he bought the ticket.

He travelled on it to Southampton and then boarded the liner Cape Town Castle on the pretext of seeing off friends. On the trip to Cape Town he stayed in the cabin of three immigrants.

PET POINTS

By Dr. J. R. Enas

Is the Lovebird Really A Parrot?

Yes. It's a miniature parrot that rarely grows larger than 5-6 inches.

CLINIC: Q. Are male calico cats rare? Are they valuable? Miss R.M.L., Columbia, S.C.

A. Female calico cats are not uncommon, but calico coloring in the males is pretty rare. The value of such a cat would depend on many factors, but the calico coloring would increase its value.

CLINIC: Q. Can dogs develop rickets, or is this disease found only in humans? P.L.O., Patterson, N.J.

A. Rickets, a skeletal disorder, afflicts both humans and dogs. However, early diagnosis and improved pediatric care have made this disease very rare these days.

CLINIC: Q. My pet poodle, Princess, is pregnant, according to my veterinarian, but he is unable to tell me how many puppies to expect. Is there any way of telling? Mrs. T.H.G., Little Rock, Ark.

A. The only way to get a count on the puppies is by X-ray or, after 45 days of pregnancy, by detecting the number of skeletons formed.

GOSSIP IN GOTHAM

Montgomery Clift expects to make a film with Elizabeth Taylor—one of his dearest friends—soon after she completes "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" . . . Deborah Kerr's husband, Peter Viertel, was suddenly stricken with an ailment (so far undiagnosed) in Switzerland, so she has cancelled her planned flight to the United States . . . Liberace's role as the casket salesman in "The Loved One" is reported to be a devastating caricature. It marks his debut as a dramatic actor, with no music involved. . . . There's been a serious disagreement between Jack Dempsey and his long time friend, advertising executive George Florey. Florey had been supervising the champion's biographical film . . . Lynda Bird Johnson's friends predict the President's daughter will become a bride before the end of this year.

Connie Francis was a tremendous hit in Rio de Janeiro, where she headlined a show celebrating the 40th anniversary of the founding of the city. Connie's by far the most popular of U.S. stars in Rio, where her records often head the best-seller lists. . . . Another show business star, who has been battling cancer for years, is getting worse, not better. It's a very sad story for Broadwayites who admire her so much.

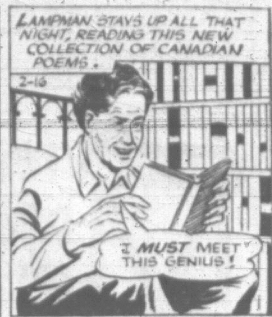

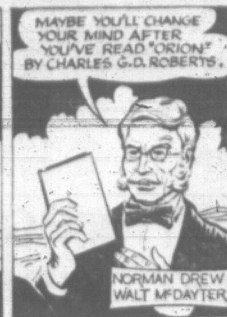

Jack Carter at the Americana is causing a lot of talk with his funny impersonations of other celebrities. His mimicry of Robert Goulet and Buddy Hackett are particularly brilliant. Sid Caesar, who rarely goes to nightclubs, turned up at the Royal Box the other night just to see Jack rib him. . . . Mickey Hargitay and Leona Gage have discovered each other. We all know who Mickey is, courtesy of Jayne Mansfield, but perhaps some fans have forgotten that Leona was "Miss Universe," briefly, until someone discovered she was really a "Mrs." Then she went on to more sensational headlines. They seem like a perfect pair. . . . Jerry Vale, whose "Have You Looked Into Your Heart" had a run of three weeks as the top selling non-rock 'n' roll record in the country, is expected to make it two in a row with his new Columbia single, "For Mama." Ironically, the song was written by Charles Aznavour, the fabulous French singer, who never bothered to record it.

Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowden have been advertised as attending the Royal Command world premier performance of "Lord Jim" at the Leicester Square Theatre in London Monday. And by an amazing coincidence Columbia Pictures have informed Lord Snowden that he may take along his camera to photograph the celebrities expected. . . . David Niven, filming "Where the Spies Are" in London, was injured while pretending to struggle with captors. He strained a muscle in his back and doctors ordered him to stay in bed for two days. It was the first time David had missed reporting for the cameras in 30 years of movie making.

Dick Clark is planning one of his most ambitious projects for the Summer—a "Youth Fair." It will be a travelling exhibition of things that interest teen-agers, including cars, clothes, records, cosmetics and sporting goods. Statisticians have been talking for a long time about buying power of the younger set, and Dick is out to prove they're right.

Council Acts to Save Fish from Fly-In Tourists

By RON LEBEL
OTTAWA (CP)—The Northwest Territories Council has clamped strict controls on "fly-in" sports fishermen after receiving warnings that northern lakes and streams are being fished out.

The council gave swift approval to an ordinance giving territorial Commissioner B. G.

Sivertz wide powers to licence and supervise all northern tourist establishments and recreational areas.

Officials said the new laws are aimed particularly at non-resident fishermen, most of them wealthy American businessmen, who fly to remote camps for one or two weeks of intensive fishing.

"The collapse of the fish population is imminent in some sections of Great Bear Lake," Mr. Sivertz told the council. "We must move rapidly to stop abuses."

He warned that the Tree River will be fished out next summer unless controls are applied to the number of fishermen flying in and to the operations of northern tourist promoters.

He said fish stocks in Great

Bear Lake are "very meagre" and slow growing, although the lake is the second largest in Canada.

American sports fishermen flocked to the lake and the Tree River last summer, taking large catches of Arctic Char and arousing protests from local residents and conservation experts.

The ordinance authorizes the commissioner to licence the construction and operation of hotels, motels, fishing and hunting camps, tent camps, camping and trailer lots and tourist homes.

The number of camps in any one area will be limited to make them economic, permanent operations. "Tourist guides and outfitters will be licensed.

The number of anglers who may visit any one area will be limited to ensure that catch quotas for local lakes and streams will not be exceeded.

In certain designated areas where fish stocks are low, permits will be needed to build a private recreational camp and to entertain more than six guests at any one time.

Regulations will be drafted shortly governing the building specifications, "size, furnishing, fire safety and sanitation standards of all tourist establishments.

The council was told that these regulations will be patterned after those in the provinces.

First offences against the new controls will carry a maximum penalty of a $200 fine and 30 days in jail. Subsequent convictions will carry a maximum fine of $1,000 and six months in jail.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

All of us take pride in our pursuits. We like to believe that we can turn out a caserole or press pants or suture a hole in a head as well as any man.

There is satisfaction in doing a task well, even if it involves slicing beef liver that has no backbone and won't sit still. But the ultimate in joy comes with recognition.

This is the child in all of us. Like the youngster who draws a home-made Valentine card and gets the parental pat on his confidence ... "that's very good."

On a July evening last year, George Hemming threw a four-hitter as Shelby defeated Rock Hill 5-1 in a Class A Western Carolina Baseball League game.

In the stands, attached to a thick Cuban coffee-nail, a heavy-set, no-nonsense man watched intently.

Asked to comment on the game, Ralph Houk declined to name names. "But," twirling the cigar, "the pitching was good."

Houk is the general manager of the New York Yankees, a team which can do with pitching.

Last year the best arm in a Yankee suit belonged to a 22-year-old named Mel Stottlemyre who wasn't even on the team roster until late August. Summoned from Richmond he won nine games and the pennant, almost stole the World Series.

$60,000—For a One-Arm Pitcher?

This year the Yankees forced $60,000 on Whitey Ford, a left-hander who may not be able to raise his arm to comb his hair.

Mr. Ford recently submitted his precious limb to surgeons who probed deep with fish-forks to repair a circulatory ailment. Ford may regain the use of his whip but pennants, generally, are not won with patched-up pitchers.

Catching Houk's eye will not guarantee Hemming a pin-stripe suit nor a locker in Yankee Stadium. But it will not impair either the outlook of a farmhand in Shelby, N.C., who aspires to forego the boondocks for the bright lights.

Three years ago George Hemming was a left-handed pitcher in the Victoria Senior League. He threw aspirins—baseball's adjective for fast balls—but not always in the general vicinity of the batter or the catcher.

But the Yankees do not turn their backs on raw-boned boys who can make a baseball hum and they signed him, only 17.

He has spent time at Harlan in the Appalachian League, at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and last year at Shelby.

His record last season was eight wins, six losses. But the Shelby team didn't terrorize many people, finishing sixth in the eight-team league. Hemming's earned-run average, a true index of a pitcher's worth, was a noteworthy 2.75.

You Never Serve Anything Tasty

"My record wasn't impressive," Hemming was saying this week. "But I feel I had a good season."

"I lost one game by making a bad throw ... a runner in a hot box and I hit him in the back. The ball rolled to centre field and he came in with the only run. It wouldn't happen again in a thousand times—I learned to accept that—and it wouldn't have happened at all if I had played it cool."

He learned other things. Like a fast ball alone is not a pitcher's best arsenal against batters with larceny in their hearts.

"There are players in the Western Carolina League that will take your hardest pitch and turn it into a squirrel-killer—if it's THEIR pitch."

"The thing is to give them the fast ball or the curve or the change-up where they don't want it, yet in the strike zone."

"My control has improved to the point where four out of five times I can make the pitch go where I want. That's the key."

"In Florida last spring I watched Ford warm up. Jim Hegan was catching and Hegan would move the mitt around the plate. Ford would put the ball smack there almost every time."

A Boy With a Lot on the Ball ...

Hemming had the good fortune to work under Gary Blaylock, a former flinger with St. Louis Cardinals.

"Every pitch Blaylock delivers," says Hemming, "comes from the same motion. I tried to vary the speed of my curve but I gave myself away. So Blaylock told me to stay with my natural motion and try and perfect my control."

"It's natural for Stottlemyre, for instance, to throw a sinker. That's his money pitch. But if you can't do it naturally you should leave it alone or you'll get shelled."

Hemming leaves for Fort Lauderdale March 12, assigned to the Class AA Yankees' Columbus team.

Had he set a timetable to make the big show or seek some more sedentary occupation?

"Not really," he said. "You learn and improve every year. But if I don't make it in a few years I'll look for something else. I don't want to be a minor leaguer all my life. I want to marry and have a family and this wouldn't be the best for them."

Then he stood up and said good-bye. He is only 20 and a pitcher, not a philosopher. He is a boy, as the scouting reports would say, with a lot on the ball ...

Rule Changes Satisfy Montreal's Trimble

MONTREAL (CP)—Jim Trimble, coach of the Eastern Football Conference Montreal Alouettes, said Monday he is generally satisfied with rule changes approved by a Canadian Football League weekend meeting in Ottawa.

He said in an interview the CFL decision to limit a team to three naturalized Canadian players will "help us more than some of the other teams."

Trimble said only two imports from Als 1964 roster—halfback George Dixon and end Jim Reynolds—are eligible to become naturalized citizens before this season starts. Quarterback Bernie Malone and defensive half Ralph Goldston, both acquired in a major trade with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, also both could fit into this category.

As for the league's decision to reduce import rosters from 15 to 14 players, Trimble said the move will cut down in a team's reserve strength.

The Montreal coach said he is a bit disappointed the CFL executive took no action on the question of blocking on punt returns. He said that, while he does not favor unlimited blocking, he would like to see at least one man eligible to block on punts.

IT WASN'T VALENTINE'S DAY

While blood was streaming down his face, Johnny Valentine appeared to be getting worst of it during wrestling bout against Bulldog Brower in Toronto. But Johnny finally pinned his tormentor and was declared the winner while being carried from ring on stretcher. (CP Wirephoto)

Mikita Stepping Up Pace In Bid for Scoring Crown

MONTREAL (CP)—Centre Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks has stepped up his drive for a repeat win of the National Hockey League scoring title, inadvertently aided by team-mate

Bobby Hull's four-game absence because of a knee injury. Hull led the league by 14 points on Jan. 7 but Mikita narrowed the lead to one point after last week's action.

'Pugilism on Ice' Costly to Players

MONTREAL (UPI)—National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell Monday night fined 17 players a total of $925 for swarming on the ice during a Toronto Maple Leaf-Montreal Canadiens game last Wednesday.

Hardest hit was Canadiens utility man Jim Roberts, fined $125 and judged by Campbell to be "primarily responsible" for the donnybrook, and 20-minute delay in the game. (Toronto won 6-2.)

In addition 10 Canadiens and six Leafs were each fined $50 for the infraction—leaving the bench to enter an altercation. The minimum levy is $25.

During the game, Roberts, an alternating defenceman-winger, hurled the Canadiens' box and surged towards a fight already in progress involving the Leafs' Frank Mahovlich and Canadiens' Ted Harris.

"This produced a chain reaction with players from the Toronto team and the Montreal team disgorging from their respective benches until there were no players left on the Canadiens' bench and five on the Toronto bench," Campbell said.

Roberts' action was "clearly not intended for any peaceful purpose," Campbell added, because he abandoned his sticks and gloves.

"He must, therefore, be held primarily responsible for the subsequent developments including the expanded fighting and the intolerable delay of the game," the league president said.

For leaving the bench in connection with the same fracas, Campbell slapped $50 fines on 16 other players.

The Canadiens fined were: Jacques Laperriere, J. C.

Tremblay, Ralph Backstrom, Dick Duff, Claude Provost, Bobby Rousseau, Henri Richard, Jean-Guy Talbot, Dave Balon and Noel Picard.

The Leafs fined were: George Armstrong, Ron Stewart, Dickie Moore, Bob Baun, Eddie Shack, Allan Stanley.

BROTHERS BUY BRONCS WITH BAG OF BUCKS

DENVER (AP)—Brothers Gerald and Allan Phipps of Denver have agreed to pay $1,500,000 for control of Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Board chairman Gerald Phipps said the Broncos would remain in Denver for the 1965 season.

The transaction gives the Phipps an additional 52 per cent of the stock of Empire Sports, Inc., parent company of the Broncos and the Denver Bears of baseball's Pacific Coast League. The Phipps now hold 94 per cent of the shares.

TOURNEY SPONSOR ...

Is TV Killing Golf?

NEW YORK (AP)—How much golf can the TV fan take without foundering?

A prominent tournament sponsor pondered this question Monday and admitted he was becoming alarmed.

"I think we're becoming over-saturated," said Jack Weiss, New Orleans. "Every time you flick on a television set on the weekend, you see some fellow hitting a ball to the green."

"Frankly, I'm disturbed. I'm afraid the Official NHL statistics released today give Hull 67 points made up of 38 goals and 29 assists. Mikita picked up four points in Hawks' four games to give him 66 points made up of 20 goals and 46 assists. Mikita is also the league bad man with 138 minutes in penalties.

Hull has 14 more goals than his nearest competitor, Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings who is in third place with 52 points. Mikita has 10 more assists than his nearest rival, team-mate Pierre Pilote.

Hull has 16 games left in which to score 13 goals needed to set a season record. Mikita is 12 assists short of the season record held by Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens and Andy Bathgate of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Pilote's 36 assists is 10 short of the season record for defencemen he holds with Bill Gadsby of Detroit Red Wings.

TORONTO GOALIES LEAD

Toronto leads in the goaltenders' race with 125 goals against scored against Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk in the games. Detroit's Roger Crozier, who leads the league in shutouts with five, is next with 123 goals against in 50½ games.

Detroit leads in team penalties with 817 minutes.

Rocks Pick McNeill To Replace Ashbee

McNeill in for Ashbee.

That's the situation in the coaching box for Victoria Shamrocks today.

Rock directors unanimously selected Jim McNeill to handle the team Monday. He succeeds veteran Don Ashbee who retired after two years at the helm.

A hard-rock, hard-shot, McNeill at 23 becomes the youngest coach in Intercity Lacrosse League history.

McNeill will make the transition from player to coach after a brilliant career. Injuries cut into his playing time but in 144 games over six seasons he scored 167 goals and contributed 83 assists.

He chose to retire after last season out of consideration for his employment future.

JIM McNEILL

"I would like to keep on playing," he said, "but I have a good job and injuries could hurt my prospects."

McNeill fit the restrictions set down by the players. They wanted a full-time coach and a resident of the area. Ashbee commuted from Nanaimo, often was unable to get down for practices.

McNeill's two best seasons in senior company were his first and last.

Breaking in at 18 he scored 40 goals. Last year, appearing to be near his peak, he rattled in 41 goals, added 21 assists.

The Shamrocks will start indoor training late this month or early in March. The season opens in late April.

Player Awards, Playoff Berth Sought by Leafs

Victoria Maple Leafs, who go gunning for some insurance for their future against Seattle Totems tonight at Memorial Arena, are hoping to land a player or two on the list of award winners at the end of the Western Hockey League season.

Victories come first for the Leafs. Struggling to take a stranglehold on one of the four playoff positions, they have only eight home games remaining and must still play 11 on the road, where their success has been anything but sensational.

Away from home the Victorians have managed only six wins and a tie in 24 tussles.

Before friendly fans on Memorial Arena ice, the story has been vastly different. They have won 13 of their last 15 at home and are 18-9 for the season.

With only a three-point bulge over the fifth-place San Francisco Seals, the Leafs are well aware of the importance of picking up a pair of wins in their two home games this week, both against the Totems, who will be back again Saturday night.

SHAKEN SLUMP

Although the Leafs have had much the best of recent battles with Seattle, winning four of the last five, there have been indications that the Totems have shaken a slump that dropped them out of first place and are ready to take a run at the pace-setting Portland Buckaroos.

That makes tonight's argument a big one for both clubs and the Leafs will again be going without veteran winger Eddie Mazur, sidelined with a knee injury, and may be without the services of defenceman Bill Shevitz, who hurt his back Sunday at Portland.

However, coach Rudy Pilous is counting on strong skating and determined checking tonight to get his charges home in front of the Totems, who will probably be paced by playmaking ace Guyle Fielder.

Fielder is back on top of the league scoring list, owning a total of 69 points on nine goals and 60 assists.

Still in the running for the scoring crown is Victoria's Milan Marcetta, who has chalked up 60 points on 27 goals and 36 assists.

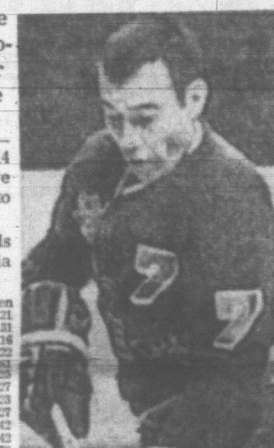

Leafs have two other candidates for individual honors in centre Larry Keenan and winger Rollee Wilcox.

Keenan is battling for the goal-scoring title and currently shares the top spot with San Francisco's Wayne Connelly. Both have fired 29 goals.

Braves Give Torre Hefty Salary Hike

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Joe Torre, the Milwaukee Braves' catcher-first baseman who was a stubborn hold-out last spring, has signed a 1965 contract for a hefty raise in pay.

Frick Considers Nankai Evidence

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick met Monday with representatives of the Nankai Hawks, but made no final decision on the case of the disputed Japanese pitcher, Masanori Mura-kani, claimed by both the Hawks and the San Francisco Giants.

"I met with Joe Stanka and Carl Hanta and listened to their story," said Frick. "I have yet to hear from the Japanese commissioner, Yushi Uchimura. The Nankai people were most sincere."

"It is possible the ball club was misled by its own representative but not by American baseball. But a contract is a contract and it must be lived up to."

Stanka, an American, has pitched for the Nankai team for five years and Hanta is a coach of the team.

"I have written to the Japanese commissioner that Mura-kani has been placed on the disqualified list and the Nankai Hawks will not be permitted to sign or deal with any American baseball players until this matter is settled," Frick said.

"There is a need for common understanding. After I hear from the commissioner either I will approve or call off all negotiations with Japanese baseball."

Frick said the Giants had on file a contract for the right to purchase any one of three Japanese players at the end of the 1964 season for $10,000 each. They purchased the contract of Mura-kani who played with the Giants in late season after moving up from the minors.

Frick said the left-handed pitcher also had signed a contract with the Giants for the 1965 season. However, he has not reported and still is in Japan with the Nankai Hawks.

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Feóoruk

Golf professionals in the Pacific Northwest seem intent on sprucing up their homestead with a compact little money circuit. Recent announcements indicate they have passed the intention stage.

From Vancouver comes word that a $6,000 "Spring Carnival" will be run-off on four mainland courses March 3-6. The tournament, scheduled to be an annual event, will be the fourth largest in Canada.

As well, the B.C. Open has been added to the list of Canadian tournaments that will qualify pros for entry in the $200,000 World Open.

Top Canadian in the 1965 B.C. Open will automatically qualify for the World event, as will leading Canadians in the Alberta, Manitoba, Quebec and Ontario Opens. B.C.'s inclusion almost guarantees the appearance of all top-flight pros in Western Canada.

The addition of the "Carnival" adds a little extra to the modest purses now available for Northwest pros who look forward to no more than a half-dozen annual outings. These include the B.C., Washington, Oregon, Lill City (Spokane) and Northwest Opens.

The B.C. pros had a meeting in Vancouver last week, and we heard they are quite anxious to include Victoria on their "map." They feel they would have no trouble securing a sponsor for a $5,000 tournament, but the pros need a suitable date and course.

There may be more on this later.

Two professionals who are casting serious eyes on the Northwest tour this year are Cedar Hill's Dick Munn, and Lyle Crawford of Vancouver. Both plan to enter most, if not all, of those events as well as the CPGA tournament in Montreal. Both would dearly love to qualify for the World Open and therefore also plan to enter the Alberta and Manitoba Opens.

A Victoria businessman has promised to sponsor Munn while Crawford has a seven-man Vancouver syndicate backing him.

Crawford, incidentally, has run into a somewhat-serious eye problem. A mechanism that governs the amount of light entering his eyes does not do the proper job and the 30-year-old swinger will have to wear tinted glasses indoors as well as outside for some time. The situation can be corrected in time.

That Vancouver Carnival will include a three-day pro-am event to be played on the Fraserview, Langara and McCleery courses. The all-pro final will be played at Richmond on the final day.

Top pro money will be $600. In addition, the pro half of the winning pro-am team can pick up another $400. Amateur entrants must have handicaps of 16 or less.

Rod Funseth's great victory in the Phoenix Open at the weekend is indicative of how things are going for the Northwest pros this year. Al Mengert, Stan Leonard and Kermit Zarley all have finished up with the leaders in one tournament or another this year.

A $10,500 cheque in Funseth's hand also proves that the Northwest circuit is a good proving ground.

SHORT CHIPS: Bill Wakeham's inauspicious debut on the Caribbean circuit may or may not need an alibi... Before starting out in Panama, Wakeham reported he had an "ouchy" wrist... It bothered him at the top of his swing... There's also a side note to the victory of Munn and Fred Worthington in Sunday's button match... The extra-hole defeat suffered by Ron MacLeod and George Bigelow (on the 20th) was only the third in three years suffered by the Oak Bay combination... Munn was on the serving end of all three... Munn and Bill Hobbs defeated MacLeod at Uplands last year and at Gorge Vale in 1963... Hobbs was to have been Munn's partner this time out, too, but a business trip to Vancouver brought on Worthington.

Colwood's Rick Kent and Urban Allan held on to the junior buttons Sunday by defeating Rick Bath and Wally Deas, a Gorge Vale combo, 4 and 3... Happiest school teacher in town is Keith Taylor... The Uplands member scored a hole-in-one Saturday on the 16th.

'ALMOST WASHED UP'

Shortage of Funds Plagues Ski Team

VANCOUVER (CP)—The coach of Canada's national ski team says the team is nearly "washed up" due to lack of funds.

Dave Jacobs, coach of the Canadian team, said in a telephone interview from the team's training site at Nelson "we're all washed up if we don't raise a few more thousand dollars."

"Our skiers are improving rapidly. I only hope we can have the opportunity to carry on because many of our skiers are moving into top international standards," he said.

He said it is costing each of the 20 skiers $1,800 to train and study at Nelson's Notre Dame University this winter. The skiers have to pay the whole sum, except for $250 granted by the federal government.

"It's too much to ask of the youngsters," Jacobs said. "If more financial help isn't forthcoming half the group in Nelson will have to pull out—and then the whole training scheme will collapse."

The experiment at Nelson is the first time a Canadian contingent has trained together.

$10,000 NEEDED

Jacobs said an additional $10,000 is needed for a planned summer program designed to prepare the skiers for the 1966 world championships in Chile.

He said he hopes to be able to invite Canada's top juniors and top 10 coaches to attend the summer training camp.

"The only thing that can stop our progress now is money—or rather the lack of it," Jacobs said.

Cliff Ridley and Eddie Ho counted tries for the Vics on their home field while Richard Can scored a try for Claremont.

In another match Monday, North Saanich downed Oak Bay 11-8 on tries by Norm Loughheed, Chris Lott and Bill Cross, and a convert by Loughheed.

North Saanich and Oak Bay will meet in a semi-final playoff next week. The winner will face the Vics for the division title.

Superb Century Helps Pakistan Gain Test Draw

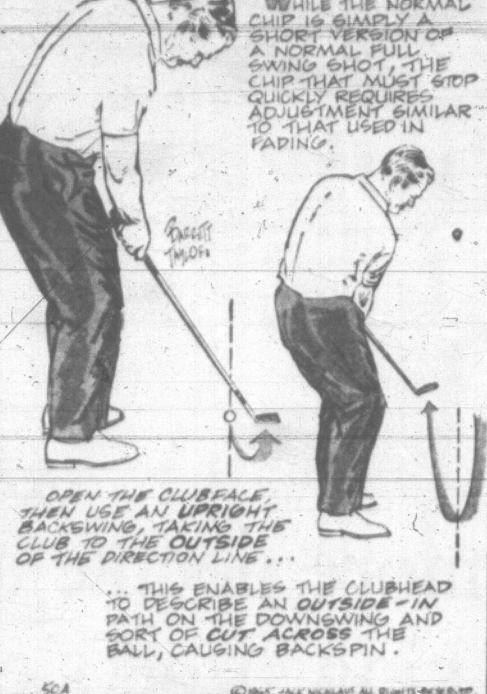

CHRISTCHURCH (AP)—The third test match between the touring Pakistan cricket team and New Zealand ended in a draw today, just like the first two matches.

Pakistan, thanks to a superb century by Hanif Mohammad, scored 309 for 8 declared, but the task of scoring 314 in 242 minutes was plainly beyond the New Zealanders and by close they were 223 for 5.

This was New Zealand's sixth consecutive test draw. The three tests against South Africa last summer also were drawn.

State Orders Hockey Probe

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts house of representatives adopted Monday an order, filed by representative Gerald J. Morrissey, calling for an investigation of professional hockey in the state in the light of a controversial New York-at-Boston National Hockey League game three years ago.

If the state senate also passes the order, an investigating committee will be set up.

Representative Morrissey said in a statement that "the particular game in question involved... Boston Bruins, and was played March 22, 1962 against New York Rangers in Boston and (was) alleged to have been manipulated in favor of New York."

"The allegations were not made by an irate Boston fan, although there were many, but by a (former) top league referee, Eddie Powers."

New York won the game 4-3 and clinched a Stanley Cup playoff berth.

Weston W. Adams, president of the Bruins, later Monday issued the following statement:

"The National Hockey League has just completed its own investigation of the incident giving rise to the inquiry for the second time and is satisfied that the charges made by the ex-National Hockey League official are wholly unfounded."

Optimists Edged By Vikings

This may be a rough week for Victoria Optimists.

They meet Victoria Chinooks, Intercity Junior Basketball League champions, in a two-game total-points series for the B.C. flag. The winner goes to Hamilton for the Canadian championships March 1-6.

Optimists tangled with University of Victoria Vikings in a warmup Monday... and lost.

Vikings, led by Haida Chief Bill Spotswood (11 points), took an early lead and hung on for a 54-53 victory. Bruce Clarke led Optimists with 19 points.

Optimists—Peter Baines 5, Frank Letzke 3, David Drummond 1, Paul Drummond 2, Barry Maloney 3, Ross Ball 10, Bruce Clark 19, Bob McKeechie, Jim Heighon 4, Total—58.

Amateur punching will return to the city sports scene Thursday night when the London Boxing Club presents a 12-bout card at Victoria Ballroom.

Heading the program will be a pair of out-of-town 128-pounders—Roger Napper of Nanaimo and Doug Wylie, who tosses leather for Vancouver Firefighters' Boxing Club.

Howie Rabey of the host club will get a spot in the semi-windup battle, facing John Cowan of Firefighters in a 112-pound scrap.

Also featured will be Kevin Alexander, who brought back the 70-pound title for the London club from last weekend's Emerald Gloves tournament at Vancouver.

Action starts at 8 p.m. Half-price tickets at 50 cents will be available for pensioners and youngsters under 14.

WANT A NEW DEAL

Lazy Gamblers Love 'Telly'

O.C. SOCCER STANDINGS

LONDON (CP)—Ask any British punter what he thinks is the greatest boon of the electronic age and he'll probably answer "television."

With the BBC and independent networks sometimes devoting more than 10 hours a week to live coverage of horse races, the lazy gambler who wants to watch his horses lose by a short head can do so in the comfort of his own home.

Attracted by sophisticated production techniques, including slow-motion repeats of photo-finishes and full details of the odds, a hard core of 12 per cent of all TV viewers watch race meetings. Only wrestling has a higher constant audience.

Now a dispute over fees has developed between racecourse owners and TV officials and there is a threat that racing may disappear from the television channels.

Until now the networks have signed separate contracts with each of the 14 tracks involved—paying out a total of about £170,000 a year for the right to broadcast meetings.

But the Racecourse Association, representing all the track owners, wants to negotiate centrally for increased fees. The extra money would be spread around all the tracks in Britain.

Is Everybody Going to Push Pet Projects?

Oak Bay council Monday night criticized Saanich for proposing a sports stadium as a joint centennial project.

"This should be dealt with on a joint basis. I'm concerned with making sure individual councils do not plug their pet projects until a joint centennial committee meeting," said Reeve Allan Cox.

"The joint committee for capital projects has been set up to do this and also to organize the fun and games of our centennial celebrations.

"FOOLISH"

"It is foolish to deal with these projects yet," the reeve said. "Esquimalt has now taken issue with this and has started plugging its pet project," commented Coun. Walter Dodsworth. "Maybe I shouldn't say this but I'm going to anyway: One doesn't want to pollute the Gorge waterway and the other is trying to."

He was referring to an application from Saanich before the pollution control board to double the capacity of the existing sewage treatment plant at Colquitz Creek and Carey Road.

The reeve also took exception to Saanich's letter to council inviting endorsement of its proposal.

The letter suggested a committee from the city and surrounding municipalities work with the Greater Victoria Inter-municipal Canadian Centennial Committee so the idea could be investigated.

"This is what that committee is for," Reeve Cox said.

MAY 31 DEADLINE

"Apparently it takes quite a while for news to get out to Saanich," he added.

Coun. Dodsworth, who is Oak Bay's representative on the joint centennial committee, said letters have been written to 30 organizations for suggested projects.

A deadline of May 31 has been set for submissions and none should be plugged until they can all be "weeded out" at a centennial committee meeting, he said.

WYATT standards

OAK BAY

Assessment Increase Defended

Assessor Colin Wyatt has defended Oak Bay's increased assessments by saying the municipality must assess up to the provincial standard to spread school costs equally.

The municipality previously assessed properties at 45 per cent of their market value, but the provincial standard is 50 per cent.

"If we under-assess property in Oak Bay, we are not carrying our fair share of the school costs in the Greater Victoria school district," Mr. Wyatt said.

"Another problem we have is we can't re-assess every year but market values continue to fluctuate."

Last year there were 19 assessment appeals and the court of revision disposed of them in one day.

This year there are 104 appeals—a record—and the court has sat for three days and will sit again Tuesday to hear an appeal on an apartment house.

So far, some appeals have been granted and most of the reductions have been on improved assessments.

School-In-House Plans Protested

Unions Off-Base, Says White

Two local trade union groups Monday night criticized Oak Bay council for using public works maintenance crews for construction work on the new municipal yard at the foot of Elgin St.

The protests were from the Union Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, Local 1598 and Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council.

"The writers of the letters made no attempt to ascertain the facts of the situation," replied municipal engineer and planner Geoffrey White.

78% CONTRACTED

He said 78 per cent of the total estimated cost has been put out to contract, including more than 75 per cent of the rough carpentry.

Men are not employed on maintenance work except for parks, boulevards, and garbage collection.

The remainder is engaged on construction such as roads, sewers, mains and concreting, he said.

The percentage of contract work on the new yard is somewhat higher than on roads, he added.

Fireworks Curb Backed By Saanich

Saanich council Monday night approved recommendations from the Greater Victoria Inter-municipal Committee regarding fireworks.

The committee recommended member councils prepare by-laws prohibiting sale and discharge of fireworks except by recognized groups first obtaining a permit.

Council also agreed to write a letter to B.C. Hydro recommending Grade 13 and university students qualify for reduced student bus fares.

A similar letter to B.C. Hydro from Burnaby, claiming the distinction discriminatory, was read to council.

In other business, council:

● Approved a House of Study for the Sisters of St. Ann at Queenswood and Arbutus;

● Approved the Jolivet subdivision near Borden and Lockside although the municipal engineer and planner earlier recommended against the development;

● Approved for consideration in the budget $250,000 for road construction, $98,300 for drainage and $50,000 for sidewalks;

● Approved a recommendation that the post of personnel officer be created and advertised.

Heroic Diver Given Award

PORT ALBERNI—Jerry Paquette, a Port Alberni scuba diver, has been awarded the Vancouver Island Divers Council trophy for lifesaving.

Paquette was instrumental in rescuing two fellow divers in separate incidents last year.

The school wants to convert a house at 1720 Beach Drive and add a 20-pupil classroom.

Montreal Trust Co., acting for Marine Oaks Apartments which adjoins the site, objected to the proposal at a recent zoning committee meeting.

Monday night, council decided to call both parties together for discussions.

Coun. Dr. Harold Carter said the zoning committee refused the application because it was an infringement of a commercial enterprise on a residential zone.

"If this is granted what is to stop the school from adding five classrooms later?" he asked.

Headmaster Hanish Simpson said the residence would probably be used only on weekdays as most of the boys would return home for weekends.

After questioning neighbors he said only two protested the proposal would devalue their property.

"Realtors say this would be questionable. And Marine Oaks Apartments seldom have complained and seldom have a vacancy," he said.

Council also:

Adopted in principle an inter-municipal committee recommendation prohibiting sale and discharge of fireworks in the municipality;

Selected Reeve Allan Cox and Coun. Mrs. Frances Elford to the joint organization committee for the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention in Victoria next fall.

Decided to uphold restrictions prohibiting dogs in Uplands Park because they disturb birds who build nests on the ground;

Authorized the reeve to write a congratulatory letter to Premier W. A. C. Bennett on his record tenure in office, and Refused an application of Mrs. Katie Wells to operate a beauty salon at 2130 Florence Street because it would go against the council's policy of extending commercial zones into residential areas.

Centennial Stadium Hopes Look Remote

By AB KENT

Chances of a Greater Victoria stadium—or any joint municipal project to mark the Canadian centennial in 1967—appear dim.

A strong bid to name a stadium as a joint endeavor for the expected $500,000 in centennial funds was made Saturday by Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis.

The idea has been suggested last year as a possible consideration, provided the five Greater Victoria municipalities agreed on a joint project.

But these factors make this possibility remote:

Trustees See Saving After Services cut

Schools in the Victoria district are getting less for their money in the way of health services, Greater Victoria School Board was told Monday night.

A report to the trustees from the Metropolitan Board of Health said there has been a decrease in services to schools because of insufficient staff.

A pediatrician employed by the health board retired last year.

It was suggested some attempt be made to alter the board's 35 per cent share ($70,000) of the health board's operating costs in view of the decreased services.

School board secretary-treasurer—Thomas Christie said a new agreement is in the making. Before it is approved the board could try to re-negotiate the agreement.

The board will discuss the matter with the health board at its next meeting.

The city would need all its centennial money, plus insurance money recoverable, plus urban renewal grants in order to do the job.

This would provide for reconstructed playing grounds, a new baseball diamond, rebuilt grandstand and special outfield bleachers—facilities needed immediately to serve the sports community.

And, according to one official, they would be at current standards only, or a step better than before the fire last October.

● Esquimalt has a strong desire to use centennial money for Gorge waterway development for public park and beautification of benefit to the whole area.

● Oak Bay, non-committal until a joint committee studying projects has discussed all alternatives, has an old ambition to build some recreation facilities of its own.

● Central Saanich can provide only nominal aid because its small population warrants little grant.

● Saanich—hopeful of being chosen site of a proposed stadium—can do nothing on its own, or with the other municipalities if Victoria optioned out, since the bulk of centennial monies would be contributed on behalf of the city.

BUS PASSENGERS RIDE INTO ANOTHER WORLD RIGHT HERE ON V.I.

North Go the Armchair Pioneers

By TERRY IZZARD
Times Staff Reporter

The final link of a tip-toe Vancouver Island motor route was forged Sunday.

Paving the way for the future was a Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus and a handful of men and women.

In less than a day they brought to fruition a long-standing dream... a regular service between Victoria and Port Hardy, 359 bus miles away.

By 1966 the road complex will link up with the Route of the Haida—a ferry service to Prince Rupert.

For now it brings the estimated 13,000 persons living north of Campbell River within easy reach of larger Vancouver Island centres.

The service will operate northbound on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, with southbound runs Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

For the first time the beauty of the Nimpkish Valley and Bonanza Lake, the sea coast between Beaver Cove, Port McNeill and Port Hardy have been opened for one and all. The city traveller is treated to brief glimpses of life in a logging camp; camps such as Vernon Lake and Woss, Nimpkish and Kokish.

Here, where life centres on the cookhouse, is another world.

A world of eating, sleeping and working, an occasional visit to the camp movie, an even rarer visit to Campbell River or Nanaimo—two or three times a year.

Sometimes there is television; at other camps, like Woss, this is still a thing of the future.

For years the northern half of Vancouver Island has been an island unto itself; a little known, self-contained area; a wilderness in which stood the occasional community. Until now these communities have been no more than names. As of Sunday they became realities, places which can now be reached by bus. The first trip took 17 hours, 4½ hours longer than expected. Aboard was a Times reporter-photographer team recording the historic journey.

The logger's work is his life. Signs of that work are all too apparent as the road curves first through dense forest then on across barren patches stretching as far as the eye can see.

The timber kings leave nothing behind.

The country is rugged, now rising steeply, then just as quickly descending into the depths of a misty valley.

Lakes and streams abound as the route meanders across the Nimpkish River, by the banks of Frost Lakes and across the northern tip of Woss Lake.

THE OLD MAN

Watching over it all is the Old Man o. the Woods.

No one has ever seen him—he's too crafty for that.

But his scheming handwork is apparent at every turn.

First he beckons with a gnarled finger, enticing the unwary traveller with his skin-deep beauty.

Then he reveals his true character, heaping fog, rain and snow on the unfortunate trespassers.

His sturdy sentries stand guard, casting a baleful eye from on high, as bus 601 plods steadily on its winding course. Inside a handful of passengers chat happily of the journey ahead. There is a pioneering spirit in the air, a light-hearted mixture of expectancy and excitement.

These are the armchair pioneers who have said they will blaze the trail in 12½ hours.

But they reckoned without the Old Man.

As they plow steadily north through waist-high snow and ankle-deep slush, past the new Gold River townsite, they slip slowly but surely behind schedule.

DARKNESS FELL

Darkness has already fallen by the time they pull into Vernon Lake logging camp 85 miles northwest of Campbell River.

Already 1½ hours late, the hamburger fresh passengers head for Woss.

The bus churns warily along the pot-riddled ground. Freak shadows disguise dangerous curves where one slip would mean almost certain death in valleys 100 feet below.

Through Woss Camp where half the total population of 250 turns out in welcome. They, who live in the timber, know why the bus is late.

Over Woss River, by Steele Creek, Kiyu Creek and further north to Kokish.

Past the world's largest bank at Bonanza Lake where countless thousands of logs are hoarded, ready for cashing when the market is ripe.

The Old Man seems almost to have given up now as the bus confidently rumbles on to Port McNeill. Only 24 miles to go.

No longer are there any signs of snow as the bus travels over the $1,000,000 government bridge which is the only link between the north and south shores of the Nimpkish River at this point.

Only a bitter chill remains as a reminder that the frosty forest still has eyes.

The crusty old sentinels, standing ever at attention, have ceased muttering as, after a steep climb, Port Hardy comes in sight, nestling snugly against the sea shore.

It is 1:10 a.m.—just 17 hours after leaving Victoria—when the bus tiredly steers stealthily along the sea of mud which is Port Hardy's main street.

ONLY THE SEA

There is no band; no hero's reception; just a sleepy-eyed hotel clerk whose thoughts are still in the faraway land of nod.

With its 15 stores and 550 people it seems hardly a fitting end for such a trip.

But further north there is only the sea... man has gone as far as four wheels will take him.

History has been made and only the Old Man is unhappy. He showed his displeasure in the form of torrents of rain, fog and snow for the return journey Monday.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

HMCS Qu'Appelle and HMCS Fraser arrive home from Pearl Harbor Friday at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., respectively. HMCS Ottawa arrives at Balboa Wednesday and HMCS Yukon will join her there Monday.

HMCS New Glasgow and HMCS Saskatchewan are in port at Balboa. In port at Esquimalt are HMCS Ships Saskatchewan, Juniper, Grise, Ste. Therese, Mackenzie, Saguenay, Beaton Hill and Antigonish.

A little boy was sick, a tree toppled only yards from the bus, a car came within inches of colliding, but the bus got through to deliver its passengers safely.

SIX DRIVERS

Just who were the men and women cutting themselves in on this slice of history.

There were the six drivers whose job it will be to operate the service: Nanaimo terminal manager Werner Pongratz, and Bill Wilson, chief dispatcher from Victoria.

Stewart Thompson, a self-professed hobo, whose inaugural runs number more than he cares to remember.

In the last 30 years this retired salesman has travelled more than 50,000 miles in Canada including four trans-continent trips.

CAME BACK

Then there was Mrs. Frances Storey who made the journey in reverse to see her daughter in Vancouver.

A resident of Port Hardy for 25 years, she normally gets out of town only twice a year.

And Adrian Briggs, 22, returning to Vancouver after two months logging at Halberg on the northern tip of the island.

For all these people the service will mean a new way of life.

In the past they were able to get out only at night and weekends when the logging roads used by the bus opened to the public.

CUT 100 MILES

In a few years time a new route will be completed from Campbell River along the east coast to Port Hardy by way of Kelsey Bay.

This will cut 100 miles off the present haul.

At long last it will be possible to follow the birds not only "to" but up, up and around Vancouver Island.

FROM HEAVILY WOODED VALLEYS the bus runs on across seeming desert land. Huge areas lie barren where the woodsman's saw has taken its toll, leaving not a sign of life.

THESE WERE THE MEN AND WOMEN who "pioneered" the route. Many were heading for logging camps and only about half completed the full journey. Here they stop to see the new townsite at Gold River on the first leg of ride. (Times photos by Irving Strickland)

SEVEN CHILDREN

Fund Opened For Family Of Logger

A fund was launched today to aid the family of a bulldozer operator who was crushed to death Wednesday by his 10-ton machine.

Herbert Winship, 43, of 653 Strandlund, was backing his machine off a flat-deck truck when the left tread slipped off the edge and the bulldozer rolled over.

He left a widow and seven children from two to 14 years.

The fund has been started by Prince Edward Branch 91, Royal Canadian Legion, Langford.

"Mr. Winship was self-employed and was not covered by workmen's compensation," said Stuart Campbell, president of the Legion branch.

VETERAN

He was not a Legion member but served in the Second World War.

Cheques can be made out to the Herbert Winship Fund and mailed to the Legion headquarters at 761 Station Road.

Mr. Campbell said the Legion is planning a benefit dance during the first week in March to aid the fund.

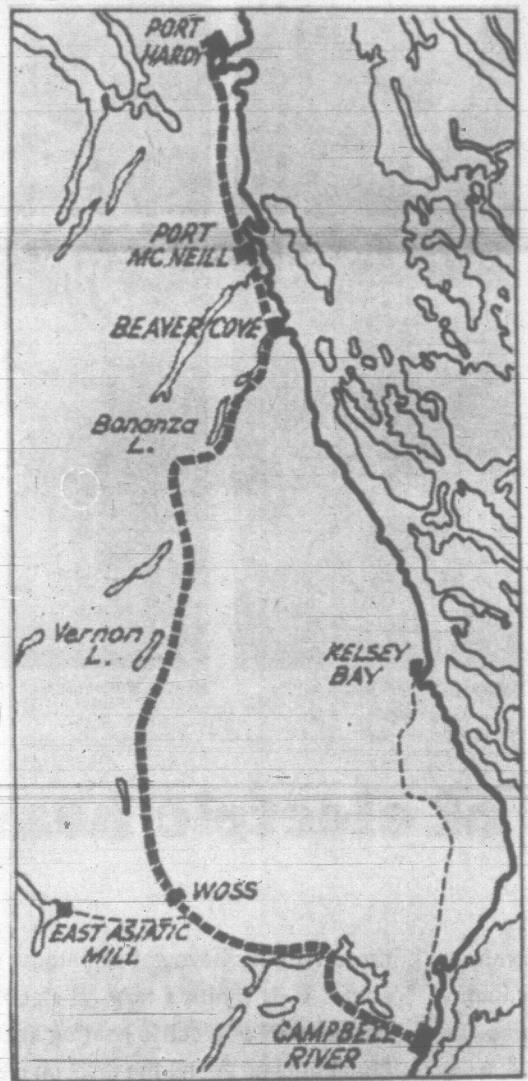

Donations will also be accepted at the Legion hall, which is open daily except Sunday.

LOW-LEVEL

A coroner's jury Monday night ruled the death accidental but recommended low-level trailer units be employed in transporting heavy equipment.

The jury reported, "It appears he experienced some difficulty or error in judgment while driving the tractor off the truck."

The inquest was held at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel.

BELYING THE HAZARDOUS NATURE of the trip, this map gives at least some idea of the route taken. First northwest to Vernon Lake, then a sweep north to Woss, Nimpkish, Port McNeill and eventually Port Hardy. The area shown has in the past, been accessible by road only to loggers.

TOPICS of the DAY

Dependants of crewmen aboard HMC ships Qu'Appelle and Fraser will be allowed to enter HMC Dockyard Friday 15 minutes before the destroyer escorts tie up.

The Qu'Appelle is due at 10 a.m. and the Fraser will arrive one hour later.

They are returning from a training cruise to Pearl Harbor where the Fraser took part in a 500-ton TNT blast to test construction of today's warships.

Members of First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada are stationed at Albert Head camp until March 6 for day and night field training.

Wednesday from 9:20 a.m. to 4:25 p.m. and Tuesday next week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. practice rounds will be fired from a 3.5-inch rocket launcher at Mary Hill.

Christmas lighting of city hall was so effective that buildings and grounds committee today proposed spending $2,000 to keep the amber glow burning the year round.

The committee recommended to city council that the symbol of urban redevelopment of Centennial Square be bathed in lights every night, on all sides.

St. Matthias Theatre Society will present "The Importance of Being Earnest" tonight at 8:15 in the Church Hall, corner Richardson and Richmond.

The show is sponsored by the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club. Tickets will be available at the door.

A motorcyclist who fell off his bike in a driveway at HMCS Naden was arrested within minutes by police Monday night and charged with impaired driving.

Douglas McKeown, 293 Atkins, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt court this morning and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Esquimalt Dockyard Branch, Royal Canadian Legion, will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the main hall, 622 Admirals.

A man thrown clear of his car in an accident on Gorge Road Saturday night is still in poor condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

John R. Lloyd, 3737 Duke, suffered head injuries and was unconscious when found.

Police are looking for witnesses to the accident which occurred, shortly after 5 p.m.

ECONOMIST:

Union Must Accept New Roles

By BOB DONAHUE
Times Education Reporter

Trade unions will likely be one of the large stumbling blocks in progress toward automation, New York economist and expert on automation said here Tuesday.

"There will likely be increasing use of strikes by the unions in an effort to retain their power which will decline sharply in an automated society," Robert Theobald said in an interview.

"The major effects of automation will be felt within the next generation and the trade unions will have to accept their new roles in a new society."

He said unions could be very useful in promoting re-training of people whose jobs are automated.

"The only types of jobs which will not be affected by automation will be in education, politics and the human care of human beings."

FUTILE EFFORT

He said in the future it will be futile for people to direct their education toward a specific job.

"Society will have to get away from the concept of a job to work. People will train themselves to do whatever they feel is important."

He said the democratic form of government will be retained but the meaning of the word democracy will probably change. "We will distribute more government power at local levels and problems will be dealt with either on a technical or democratic level."

EXTENSION

Mr. Theobald said his theory of everyone being guaranteed an income whether they work or not is simply an extension of present welfare policies.

"But there will have to be a reversal of the present concept to one in which a guaranteed income is considered a right and not welfare."

OPEN SYSTEM

He said it would operate on an open system in which anyone who wanted to work would be able to.

Mr. Theobald said the most crucial problem facing mankind is finding something to do with the people who do not have a job.

"We will have to find meaningful employment for them and this depends largely on education."

Gary Allan Moonie, 21-year-old Victoria seaman, admitted shooting his father with a Lee Enfield rifle, a police constable stated in Assize Court here today.

Moonie was quoted as saying: "I only meant to hurt him."

He has pleaded not guilty to the non-capital murder of his father, Allan A. Moonie, 41, at their home at 170 Hartland Road in the early hours of Nov. 28.

Mr. Moonie, a barman in a Victoria hotel, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital two days after the shooting.

Before a 12-man jury in Assize Court today, Constable J. M. Post told of visiting the Moonie's home with two detectives and two policemen at 4:16 a.m.

He said Mr. Moonie Sr. was lying on the floor covered by a blanket. There was a Lee Enfield Mark 1 No. 4 rifle on the dining room table.

Constable Post said to the accused: "Who shot him?"

"I did," Moonie replied.

He then pointed to the rifle on the table and Moonie admitted using it.

"Was it an accident?" the constable asked.

"No, I just shot him," Moonie replied.

Later he was asked "Did it enter your mind to shoot your Dad?"

"Yes," Moonie was quoted as replying. "I had thought of it lots of times. That was the reason I was leaving the house."

Constable Post said accused told him he phoned the police immediately after the shooting.

Moonie told him he had gone to bed about 1 a.m. and was awakened some time later by hearing his father shouting at his mother and sister.

"I got up, got dressed, took my rifle out of the rack and put a clip with one bullet in it," Moonie was quoted as saying.

"When I walked into the living room, my father screamed at me. If he had not said what he did this would not have happened."

Constable Post said Moonie broke down and cried while he was answering questions. He said his father had been yelling at his sister Gail (14) about her cat.

The constable said the girl told him her father had stepped on the cat's dish and screamed at her about giving the cat too much milk.

Chief Justice J. O. Wilson is hearing the trial, which continued this afternoon. William R. McIntyre is crown prosecutor, assisted by C. O. D. Branson. Hugh McGivern, of Vancouver, assisted by his son John, as appearing for Moonie.

Parking Cutback To Clear Street For Fire Trucks

Residential parking along the east side of Moss Street for its entire 14-block length was wiped out today in a recommendation to city council by traffic committee.

Householders of some 85 properties are affected by the move, originating with Fire Chief John Abbott because Moss Street is a major fire route and too narrow to permit safe parking on both sides.

Moss Street runs from Fort to Dallas Road, the top end a block away from the main fire hall on Yates Street.

Many of the houses on the east side of Moss have private driveways, it was pointed out.

'Lady-In-Waiting' Poster Unfair to the Fairer Sex

The Victoria Humanist Fellowship has protested to Health Minister Eric Martin about an "unfortunate impression" in a provincial anti-venereal disease poster.

A resolution passed by the group and forwarded to the minister read:

"The minister of health be requested to do all in his power to remove the unfortunate impression created by this poster that women have the main responsibility for the spread of VD."

"This society in common with many other societies in B.C. is anxious to aid the government in any well-thought-out plan for combating this serious menace but considers this poster liable to antagonize large sections of the public."

The letter was signed by Dr. Marion Sherman, 2901 Seaview Road, secretary of the group.

The health minister recently announced a provincial anti-VD campaign featuring a slyly redheaded with the caption "four out of five pickups have VD."

The poster will be displayed in public washrooms.

FLORIST DIES SUDDENLY

Well-known Victoria florist Gordon Ballantyne died at his home, 2715 Dunlevy, this morning.

The 62-year-old Victoria's death came as a shock to friends and relations with whom he had been chatting the day before.

For 44 years he handled a florist business in the city, first with brothers Alan and Clyde on Quadra Street between 1921 and 1935.

Then he and Clyde started their own business under the name of Ballantyne Bros. Ltd., 900 Douglas Street.

Although Gordon semi-retired from active business two years ago, Clyde, 57, still runs the shop.

He is survived by the widow, Winifred. They had no children.

An active member of Victoria Rotary Club for many years, Mr. Ballantyne was also a Mason in Victoria Columbia Lodge, No. 1, and a member of the Capital City Commercial Club.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced. McCall Bros. is in charge.

Mom Will Find These Make Her Job Easier

By PENNY SAVER

One of my neighbors announced, the other day, that she is expecting a baby. Her husband insists it's going to be a boy because he is presently surrounded by his wife and three daughters and he is beginning to feel a little outnumbered. This, probably, will mean a baby shower, and so I am beginning right now to look for gifts. (I have a very good reason; I usually forget until the very last moment!)

One store I was in had a very good idea for keeping baby's cereal warm while he's eating.

It is a plastic feeding dish, priced at $3.95. The bottom is hollow and can be filled with hot water to keep the contents of the plate warm. The stopper at the top will prevent water spillage and the added weight makes the plate less likely to tip over.

An item a new mother might be interested in is the new bottle warmer I've found. Entirely electrical, it cuts the time necessary to warm baby's bottle nearly in half and also relieves the worry of whether the milk is too warm or cool.

When the bottle is set upright in the container and covered, it is gently steamed to allow the milk to warm right through at the correct temperature. It then shuts off automatically.

Not only can this versatile appliance, selling at $24, be used for baby, but also for boiling Dad's eggs in the morning. A special attachment allows you to boil eight eggs at one time, to any desired hardness, shutting off automatically when the egg is done. It's wonderful for a large family.

Poached egg, anyone? An additional device can poach four eggs at one time with no mess, fuss or worry.

For the older child, I've discovered a dish to keep food warm, electrically. The three-sectioned plate is equipped with a suction cup on the bottom so it will not slide or be knocked off.

And here's a tip for the clever housewife. Some women, I'm told, use this device, selling at $18, to keep side dishes hot during meals or when entertaining.

Baby-shopping? Remember Penny at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

These Exercises Will Help You Awaken In the Morning

It always seemed uncivilized to me to rush right into the day without taking time to wake up gradually. I guess it seems this way to me because I am a slow waker-upper and sort of weave my way into the day. I am struck dumb with horror and amazement by those who jump out of bed in the morning with a song on their lips and speed past the alarm clock as though they were trying to make the next traffic light.

You can therefore imagine my delight to discover that there is scientific backing for the feeling I have. It is natural and healthful to stretch your muscles and yawn and breathe deeply when you awaken. Some muscles have been cramped and all have been comparatively quiet. They need awakening. Circulation should also be speeded up gradually—not suddenly.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, one of the distinguished geriatric pioneers, felt so strongly about this that he devised scientifically planned waking-up exercises. Here they are.

One: Take a deep breath and place the hands on the shoulders. Fists are tight. Lift your chest as you take a deep breath and push back with the head. Now stretch up with the left arm and out with the right and bend to the right. Twist and bend to the left. Stretch in each direction. Gradually exhale to the end of the double stretch.

Two: This is called the saw massage. Lie on your back on the bed. Make your chest big, lifting it as your abdomen becomes hollow, during the count of six. Now push down making the chest small and the abdomen large. Do this three times without breathing. Then take three deep breaths. Continue, exercising and breathing.

Three: Kick the covers off. Lying on your back, make circles with your legs, as though you were bicycle riding while lying down. After a short time of this raise both legs up to right angles to the body, knees stiff, and swing them down over the edge of the bed, sitting up on the side of the bed.

Four: This is more difficult and will take practice. The abdomen moves around in a circle while the head and hips remain in the centre of the circle.

Five: Stand with feet apart and hands on hips. Bend to the right as far as possible. Bend to left as far as possible. Bend forward as far as possible. Continue.

Six: This is the beginning step in many primitive dances. Hop twice on one foot and twice on the other. Feel the rhythm and let your body sway a little from side to side. An Indian war whoop should go with this, either from you or a member of your family.

Seven: Stand. Look down toward the floor. Place your hands behind your head. Lift your head and lower it backward. Resist gently with your hands.

This is not only a splendid waking-up routine but gives you a wonderful internal massage, and some good stretches. Following this program is a beneficial and pleasant way to weave your way into the day.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Setting Up in Bed" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet 27 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY...

A Barber is a Barber

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: So you say that a barber is not permitted or qualified to remove blackheads? Well, please go to the library and read The Practice and Science of Standard Barbering, and I believe that you will change your mind after reading the chapter entitled, Diseases of the Skin, Scalp and Hair. I am a student at a barber college in Covington, Ky., and I have personally removed two warts from the face of a customer by high frequency treatments. I have also removed countless blackheads from the faces of many others.

A barber is trained and qualified to treat any skin disease of the scalp, skin or hair if the disease is not contagious. Sincerely yours,

A FUTURE BARBER.

DEAR FUTURE BARBER: A barber is neither qualified nor licensed to treat diseases of the skin, whether contagious or otherwise. It is possible that when you removed two "warts" from the face of your customer one of them may have been a cancer, and the high frequency treatment that you used could have spread malignant cells into the bloodstream. It is also possible that when you remove blackheads, you are aware that your customer may be a diabetic or suffer from hemophilia (a bleeding disease). Highly qualified dermatologists require special laboratory techniques before they know whether a scaling of the scalp is ringworm or ordinary dandruff.

So my advice to you is to perfect your skill as a barber, and do not trust even the best-trained surgeon you know to cut your hair. He might get carried away and scalp you!

DEAR ABBY: If your husband, who had always been very conservative, suddenly and for no apparent reason or occasion, gave you an expensive monogrammed vanity case, would you be suspicious?

BROWN EYES.

DEAR BROWN EYES: Not if they were MY initials.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for 10 years. We have four love-

Quebec Women Lag Behind

MONTREAL (CP)—The women of Quebec still have a long way to go before they get true emancipation. Mrs. Therese Casgrain, a women's rights spokesman, told members of the Kiwanis-St. Laurent Club recently.

She said women's rights legislation, adopted by the Quebec legislature last year is an improvement, "but it still confirms husband and wife community of property rights which are almost alien to our North American context."

She asked why Quebec should necessarily copy France.

Mrs. Casgrain, chairman of public affairs for the Voice of Women, said that in spite of improvements of late "Quebec women still have the burden of the proof when stating their marital status," and most often find themselves at the losing end in matter of legacies.

Mrs. Casgrain also voiced her support for civil marriage and divorce courts in Quebec.

"France," she said, "has a civil marriage ceremony and that does not prevent anybody from marrying before a minister of religion too. We should have that system so that everybody would be equal before law and ministers not put in a position where they are officers of the state too."

TODAY'S RECIPE

ALMOND-APRICOT BAVARIAN

One cup fine graham cracker crumbs, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 envelope plain gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 can (1 lb. 14 ozs.) apricot halves, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ pint whipping cream, ¼ cup roasted diced almonds.

Mix crumbs with 2 tablespoons sugar in nine-inch square pan; stir in butter. Reserve ¼ cup crumbs; press remainder against bottom of pan. Bake in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven 12 minutes or until golden brown. Cool. Meanwhile, stir gelatin into water. Combine in saucepan apricots, including syrup, lemon juice and remaining sugar. Heat to boiling; remove from heat. Add gelatin mixture, stirring, until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Whip cream; fold with ¼ cup almonds into apricot mixture. Pour over crumb crust; top with remaining crumbs and almonds. Chill thoroughly; cut into squares.

The comforts of electric heating!

Today over 6,000 B.C. families enjoy the comforts of modern electric heating—including the happy looking people pictured here. These families live in all types of houses, in all kinds of climate, from Victoria to Prince George. What keeps them smiling? The cleanliness of electric heating. The comfort of room-by-room temperature control. The quiet, carefree operation of the most modern automatic heating available today. And this winter these families have got something extra to smile about. B.C. Hydro's new all-electric rates have cut the cost of electric heating as much as 20%. Shouldn't you get all the facts on electric heating? If you're planning to build or modernize your home, ask B.C. Hydro's Heating Advisory Service for a free heating survey. Discover how little it costs to heat your home electrically. Then you'll be smiling, too!

MILES-VANDEAN VOWS

Victoria Man Wed In Kamloops Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Miles travelled to Kamloops recently to attend the marriage of Irene Mary Vandean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Vandean of Kamloops, and their son, Thomas Arthur David Miles. With them were their children, Linda, Wendy, Donald and Tracie.

Also from Victoria were Mrs. A. Miles, the groom's grandmother; Miss E. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ponsioen, Mike Fisher, Paul Lawrence and Don Ingram. Other out-of-town guests included Sister Virginia Mary, Mission City, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Svend Elmholdt and Miss Thora Plum of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Omar Lascelle and Ron of North Surrey, and Miss Mary D. Harry, Quesnel, B.C.

The couple exchanged marriage vows in a nuptial mass at Sacred Heart Cathedral, Kamloops, with Fr. E. Sages officiating. Sisters and grade 10 girls of St. Ann's Convent sang during the double-ring ceremony.

Lace appliques enhanced the floor-length gown of white peau de sole worn by the bride. The bodice was styled on fitted lines.

Of Personal Interest

IN TWO CITIES

On Wednesday, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will cross to Vancouver where he will attend a dinner in honor of Premier W. A. C. Bennett. The dinner will be held in the Hotel Vancouver. Cmdr. J. Roberts will be in attendance.

That same evening, Mrs. George R. Pearkes will attend the production of "The Importance of Being Earnest," to be given by the St. Matthias Little Theatre Society in the church hall, corner of Richardson and Richmond roads.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Worth, 2875 Ashley Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lorna Frances, to Mr. John Whitney Meikle, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Meikle of Vancouver, and formerly of Victoria. The wedding will take place on Saturday, March 13, at 2:30 p.m. in All Saints Anglican Church, View Royal. Rev. John Vickers will officiate.

Novel Container

A miniature truck held gifts when Mrs. D. Patterson entertained at a shower in her Roy Road home for bride-elect, Miss Sandra Statham. The guest of honor and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Samuel Patterson, were both presented with corsages of red and white carnations. A brown and silver shower cake centred the refreshment table. Guests included Mrs. D. Lum, Mrs. R. Wyatt, Mrs. Ivy Ingram, Mrs. D. Stone, Mrs. J. McLellan, Mrs. C. McLellan, Mrs. G. Stone, Mrs. J. Sprague, the Misses Phyllis McLellan, Carole Stone, Wendy Patterson and Linda Ehl.

Wed In Seattle

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place in Fauntleroy Community Church in West Seattle when Miss Karen Louise Spaberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Spaberg became the bride of Mr. Lorne L. Earl. The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Earl, 1523 Walnut Street, Victoria. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Priscilla Spaberg, and the groom's sister, Miss Jean Earl.

The engagement has been announced of Arlene Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. T. White, 463 Chester Avenue, and the late Mrs. White, to Mr. Raymond George Williams, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams, 1060 Erindale Place. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, with Fr. William Kennedy officiating. (Chevrone Studio) and the slim skirt featured a detachable train. Her tulle veil misted to chapel length from a tiara of pearls and crystals. She carried a white prayer book, gift of the groom, topped with white carnations and centred with a white gardenia. She was given in marriage by her father.

After a honeymoon trip touring British Columbia, the couple will make their home at the RCAF Station in Rivers, Man.

The bride's going-away outfit was a mustard-toned two-piece suit with toning and navy blue accessories.

RED AND WHITE

Miss Karen Vandean was maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaid was Miss Linda Miles, sister of the groom. They complimented their ballerina-length gowns of deep red velvet with matching wedding ring headpieces trimmed with white veiling. White carnations formed their bouquets.

Raymond Vandean, brother of the bride, was best man and guests were ushered to their pews by Jack Ponsioen and Bill Haywood.

Dr. F. J. B. Beasley proposed the toast to the bride's happiness at a reception that followed in Stockmans Motor Hotel Crystal Ballroom.

A three-tier wedding cake, topped with a gold cross entwined with wedding rings centred the bride's table.

BRONCHITIS & SMOKERS COUGH

If you cough, wheeze, and find it hard to breathe and sleep because of attacks of Bronchitis or Asthma, you can get quick help by asking your doctor for AZMO-TABS. A course of AZMO-TABS treatment usually quickly thins, loosens and helps remove sticky, choking phlegm that makes you cough and wheeze and be short of breath. Then you can sleep better, breathe freer and enjoy life. Get AZMO-TABS today, feel better fast. Adv.

Mr. Bill Waklyn was best man and ushering guests were Mr. Harry Whitehouse and Mr. Bob Hewitt. After a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs, the couple is now making their home in Seattle where the groom is on the staff of the University of Washington.

WI PLAN POEM COMPETITION

OTTAWA (CP)—The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada are sponsoring a competition among their 72,000 members for a centennial poem.

The competition, for a poem about any phase of Canada's 100 years since Confederation, is one section of the federation's triennial Lady Tweedsmuir competition.

Two other competitions are open for the best village history and for the best sample of drawn thread work, one of the oldest forms of embroidery.

The Lady Tweedsmuir competition was begun in 1945 by the widow of the former governor-general. She presented the federation with three silver cups to be awarded for the best village history, and to winners in cultural and handicraft sections.

About 2,500 Tweedsmuir histories have been compiled throughout Canada in the last 20 years.

Two entries in each section of the competition are submitted from each province. The winners are to be announced in 1967.

Mrs. H. H. Steen, second from right, arrived from Vancouver on Monday evening to attend the three-day annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women, being held at the Empress Hotel, Monday to Wednesday. Mrs. Steen is president of the National Council of Women. Seep going over the heavy agenda for the meeting with Mrs. Steen are, left to right: Mrs. Rod Smylie, Burnaby, provincial chairman of resolutions; Mrs. N. W. Dickson, president of the Fort St. John Council, and Mrs. Bertrand Galloway, Vancouver, provincial president. Final act of the meeting will be to present a number of resolutions to the cabinet on Wednesday evening.

Attractive Decorations Add to Party Fun For Dance in McMorran's Seaview Room

Red tulips and daffodils added to the theme of large red hearts and red and white streamers for a Valentine party, held at McMorran's Seaview Room on Saturday evening. Traditional cards were a focal point on individual tables.

Among the guests who danced to the music of George Kraebling's orchestra were Mr. and Mrs. John Malone, who were celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary. With them were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kovacs.

In another party were Mr. and Mrs. Syd Moorhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Logie, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Logie, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Berrow, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jensen, Mr. Robert West and Mrs. Joy Wiltsie.

Attending with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Turcotte were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ponsford, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Prosser, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Halling and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Panteluk.

CLUB MEMBERS

In a party from the Amity dance club were Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. Haas and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Lange.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Turner attended with Mr. and Mrs. J. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. N. Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rutledge and Mr. and Mrs. A. King.

Included in the party with Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Poole were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Smith, Tony Mollet and Miss Julie Hagar, Stephen Franks and Mrs. Pat Spriggs, Alan Patterson and Miss Vicki Husband and Clive Piercy and Mrs. Patricia Murray.

Attending in a party of 12 were Mr. and Mrs. R. Krieger, Mr. and Mrs. F. Krieger, Mr. and Mrs. H. Witka, Mr. and Mrs. J. Zollner, Mr. and Mrs. K. Heyde and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Remes.

ATTEND IN PARTY

Making up a party of 10 were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Collett, John Mace and Miss Anne Burkard, John Adams and Miss Diana Munroe, Douglas Phillips and Miss Joan Burkard, John Rostan and Miss Brenda Schofield and in another party were Mr. and Mrs. R. Schorlsbrick, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brand, Mr. and Mrs. J. Storrie and Mr. and Mrs. A. Lambbrick.

With Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butterworth were Mr. and Mrs.

In smaller parties were Mr. L. Gazzola and Miss J. Hazlet, F. Flora and Miss B. Thornton; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lane and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKenzie; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McHaffie and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Thomas; Mr. and Mrs. M. MacPhail and Mr. and Mrs. M. Flemming; Mr. and Mrs. J. Grabavee; Mr. and Mrs. Doug Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Don Joyce; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Cox and Mr. and Mrs. G. Saville and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fairless, Mrs. N. Watt, Mrs. Rose Dawes and Mr. Syd Moore.

Other guests included D. Gilman and Miss P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. W. Isbister, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hindson, and Mr. Gerry Moreau and Miss Penny Wocklock.

Bride Wears Gold Cross As Her 'Something Old'

An heirloom gold cross belonging to her grandmother, fulfilled the tradition of "something old" for Darlene Ann Smith recently when she became the bride of Robert Charles Alfred Jury.

Pearl sequins highlighted the scalloped neckline and the hemline of her ballerina-length gown. The fitted lace bodice was styled with three-quarter-length sleeves and the organza skirt was accented with similar lace applique.

A wedding ring held the four-tier veil. Yellow-centred white orchids and ivy formed her bouquet. She entered the church on the arm of her brother, John Smith.

Parents of the principals are Mrs. A. E. Smith, 4180 Holland Avenue, and the late Mr. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Jury, 717 Admirals Road.

White flowers at the altar and baskets of similar blossoms accented with red bows decorated St. Mark's Church for the ceremony at which Canon Robert Willis officiated.

Soloist, Mrs. C. Hyde, sang "O Perfect Love" during the evening ceremony.

Bell-skirted gowns of red velvet were the choice of matron of honor, Mrs. J. Smith, and bridesmaid, Mrs. A. Smith, sisters-in-law of the bride. Their only jewelry was pearl pendants.

New Graduates

Tribute To Centenary

Education Minister Peterson said Monday graduation of the first students from B.C.'s new senior secondary program will be the province's "greatest tribute" to the 1967 centenary of confederation.

Mr. Peterson, speaking during the legislature's budget debate, said the new program will provide vocational motivation in each of its six streams.

The new programs, providing 18 fields of study and more than 50 new or revised courses, will go into effect in grade 11 this year, and grade 12 in 1966.

SPECIAL WORKSHOP

Mr. Peterson said preparation of so complex a program required the department to set up a special workshop last summer.

The workshop was needed, he said, to meet the rigid time schedules.

In his speech the minister also announced government approval of the second stage of construction for Simon Fraser University in Burnaby.

The first phase, involving $17,600,000 in construction, is already under way and classes are to start next fall.

Mr. Peterson said advancing the second phase will mean the university will be able to handle some additional enrolment when it opens next fall.

9,300 People Entitled To Bus Pass

A total of 9,300 persons are entitled to free rides on B.C. Hydro buses in Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver.

This was revealed Monday in a lengthy answer to a question filed previously in the legislature.

In Greater Victoria they include 329 police and firemen when in uniform, 167 blind persons and 66 war-amputees, as well as all active and retired employees of B.C. Hydro.

All told, there are 4,433 B.C. Hydro employees and 1,016 retired employees in both metropolitan areas.

The total number of police and firemen in both areas is 1,208.

Other pass holders include all members of the legislature, Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes, Senator J. W. deB. Farris, and all council members and civic employees of Vancouver, New Westminster, North Vancouver, Richmond and Burnaby.

No passes are given to civic employees and council members in Greater Victoria.

Long Term Plan Set for Parking

A plan to resolve civil servant parking problems for 25 years was adopted Monday by a special committee of Victoria council, planners, provincial administrators and government employees' parking commission.

The proposal, which will be recommended to city council, calls for establishment of six specific areas within the legislative precinct initially for surface parking of 900 vehicles.

As the precinct is developed, the areas would be sites for six 500-car parking buildings, the committee report recommends.

City engineer James Garnett delivered the report on behalf of the sub-committee called together by advisory planning commission and civil-provincial representatives.

The recommendations are:

- Earmark specific sites for future parking facilities.
- Obtain them early for surface parking development.
- Obtain similar area within the precinct for temporary parking.

Man Charged With Theft Of Ensigns

COMOX—A Comox man was to appear in court today charged with stealing red ensign flags from flagpoles at Courtenay and Comox post offices.

Art Constable appeared briefly in court Monday, charged with the thefts earlier in the day.

The flags were due to have come down at noon when the new maple leaf flag was hoisted.

Constable was released on $250 bail.

RCMP said the flags were discovered missing late in the morning.

One was taken from a short flagpole on top of Comox post office, the other from a taller pole on top of the two-storey Courtenay building.

Bank-Blocking Moves Nurtured by Bennett?

TORONTO (CP)—Members of the Ralliement des Creditistes are under instructions from Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia.

Sinclair Stevens told the annual meeting of his company—which is the major sponsor of the proposed Bank of Western Canada—that the Creditistes are filibustering in the House of Commons.

He said they have openly acknowledged that they are delaying petitions for bank bills on instructions of Mr. Bennett, whose government has so far failed to obtain Senate approval of its petition to charter the Bank of British Columbia.

"Even the Creditiste party is not opposed to incorporating new banks," he said, "but they feel as a political tactic they must hold up our bill in the hope such action will lever the Bank of British Columbia through both houses."

The Senate has passed a bill to charter the Bank of Western Canada with headquarters in Winnipeg and another to charter the Laurentide Bank of Canada in Vancouver.

"It is obvious that all existing banks are prospering," said Mr. Stevens, "so that there is ample scope for new banks to become active—especially in the Canadian West."

Police Budget Request Hiked For Oak Bay

The Oak Bay police commission Monday night submitted to council a $151,698 budget.

This is an increase of $9,000 over the 1964 estimate of $142,698. Actual cost for policing the municipality that year was $139,054.

The new estimates are made up of $140,487 for police protection and salaries; $10,182 for law enforcement; and $1,029 for purchase of new equipment.

The budget includes salaries at 1964 rates and increases from negotiations now in progress would have to be added.

Two Miners Killed

YELLOW KNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Two men were killed during the weekend when buried alive by mud they were clearing from a chute at the 600-foot level at nearby Tundra mines. It took four hours to dig them out. One was reported to be from Edmonton, the other from Uranium City, Sask.

Two Youths Killed

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Two youths riding home from a Valentine party were killed and two were injured early Sunday when their car left the highway south of here, sheared off a pole, and had its roof torn off. Dead are William Dawe, 18, and Gary Arthur Granbois, 19.

First Call with Bon-Wicks

Oak Bay councillors had help from a motorist in deciding Saturday whether to erect a fence around a triangular park at Upper Terrace and Uplands Road.

When they arrived on the scene during their annual inspection tour, they found the grass played by tire marks from a small car.

The damage was apparently done overnight Friday.

Council had received a petition from residents to fence in the area because of children playing there.

But now the park's committee recommendation to council will include a fence to keep cars off as well as to confine small children to the playing area.

The Union Jack Forever! Duncan Rules

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Duncan will be a two-flag city. The new Maple Leaf and the old Union Jack will fly side-by-side over city hall in the future.

The decision to fight rather than switch was taken by council Monday.

And it was a close battle.

Mayor Jack Dobson used his casting vote to sway a motion in favor of the two-flag system.

The controversy arose after city hall failed to fly the new flag Monday.

Mayor Jack Dobson told council: "We're not bucking Ottawa in any way, but we're still flying the Union Jack."

The mayor said he received a number of "pointed" phone calls about the non-appearance of the new flag.

He said: "I still consider myself a good Canadian. I checked into it and we are quite within our rights to fly the Union Jack."

"Our record is outstanding in the whole of Canada and we can't be accused of being unpatriotic or un-Canadian."

"We will not be criticized so soon after the death of Sir Winston Churchill for neglecting to scrap the flag under which so many fought and died."

Mr. Dobson said he felt most strongly that as Duncan was fundamentally a British district it should fly the two flags—the Union Jack and the Maple Leaf.

Ald. Robert Mason said no-one was more proud than he of the red ensign, but he asked: "Are we going to stand outside what Parliament, in a free vote, has decided to do? I don't like the new flag but it's the flag of the country we should be flying it."

Council's decision will mean purchase of a second flagpole as well as a second flag.

5% Pay Increase For Board Staff

DUNCAN — Sixty Cowichan School Board employees—janitors, bus drivers and maintenance men—have won a 5 per cent pay increase.

The board announced an agreement Monday with the IWA.

Trustee Neil Dornier said in addition to the 5 per cent across-the-board, 26 maintenance men would get an extra $19 to bring them into line with the average paid in neighboring districts.

The IWA had asked a 15 per cent increase for the men.

Cleanliness may be next to Godliness. But the old proverb didn't hold water for the school board.

It turned down a Jehovah's Witness' request for a Sunday rental of Cowichan Senior Secondary School Auditorium. The group said it has its own efficient cleaning staff.

M. Sideroff said the projected three-day Bible training convention would bring thousands of dollars to the district.

He said his organization had rented school auditoriums in Victoria, Nanaimo and Port Alberni and is willing to pay supervising janitors time and a half.

Trustees argued it would set a precedent which would let in less conscientious organizations, and said the board's policy was to give staff Sundays off.

Trustee Will Dobson told the board: "The time is coming when you will have to decide if you want to allow married students in our secondary schools."

He declined to enlarge on the subject after the meeting and wouldn't say if the question was about to arise.

There are no married students at present although Cowichan Senior Secondary School did have a man enrolled in grade 13 who was married with a family.

Said Mr. Dobson: "It isn't that people are getting married at an earlier age than they did 30 years ago but they are staying in school longer."

Trustee Neil Dornier said: "We don't discriminate."

George Bonner Junior Secondary School, Mill Bay, has an inadequate well water supply, according to trustee Jack Efford.

But he isn't sure it's $7,500 inadequate.

This would be the school board's share of the cost of extending Whiskey Point water system to the school.

Mr. Efford asked the development committee to further explore the possibility of linking up the other potential users of the extension.

He said: "We should try to get water to George Bonner School but not at that price."

The board and Whiskey Point committee will reconsider the matter.

City Water Clinched For Somenos Houses

DUNCAN — The serial story of how to bring city water to the North Cowichan-VLA subdivision at Somenos reached another chapter Monday night.

City council approved in principle the sale of water in bulk and by meter to areas outside its boundary "at prices to be determined by city bylaw from time to time."

This decision seemed to clinch city water for the 69 property owners who have been seeking it for over a year.

Council agreed its water committee should consider supplying Somenos Indian reserve on the same basis.

Ald. James Saunders, who made the suggestion, said at present a lot of water is going to waste from stand-up pipes on the reserve.

Council also agreed to review the existing general water agreement with the Cowichan band.

INDIAN SCHOOLS INADEQUATE

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of B.C. professor says that most Indian schools in B.C. have watered-down curriculums and poorly-equipped teachers.

Professor R. W. Dunning of UBC's department of anthropology said that is why Indians cannot compete for jobs on an equal footing with whites.

He was speaking as a member of a panel discussion.

Sidney Record System Rapped

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sidney village commissioners today are smarting from a sharp rap on the knuckles delivered Monday by Deputy Municipal Affairs Minister J. Everett Brown.

He strongly urged the commissioners to "put their house in order."

Mr. Brown's recommendations were contained in a letter accompanying a government report on irregular village administrative practices.

"The root of the difficulties lies in the woefully inadequate records maintained and procedures followed by the clerk and council," Mr. Brown stated.

He made it clear, however, there was no evidence that "special favors have been granted or special interests served."

But he added: "There is ample evidence to suggest that neither the clerk nor the council have fully realized the significant differences between private and public business."

"Public business by its very nature requires that the actions of those charged with carrying out the business can be clearly identified and evaluated, and this can only be done when proper records are maintained and appropriate procedures followed," he said.

The report followed a government investigation into charges by Commissioner Andrew Boas that the commission condoned an illegal sewer deal with a property owner on Bowerbank Road.

The investigation, conducted by W. K. Smith and C. H. L. Woodward of the department of municipal affairs, also looked into complaints that charges for the sewerage system were not imposed in accordance with the provisions of the village bylaws.

The report absolved the commission and former public works chairman J. G. Mitchell of any wrongdoing in connection with the extension of the sewer pipe.

The property owner paid $300 for the extension, it pointed out.

There was no financial gain to the property owner in this instance, and assuming that the line will be extended further in due course, the village benefited to the extent of the $300 applied towards the cost of the line," it said.

But the report did show that no records were kept outlining the agreement between the property owner and the village.

"We were advised by the clerk that having had the matter referred for him for approval that he, by telephone, outlined the proposal to the chairman of the public works committee who agreed to the proposed arrangement," it stated.

The report said the chairman of the public works committee and the clerk may have assumed an authority which had not been granted them by council.

The report indicates that the general policy for minor alterations in the approved sewer program was for the engineer to consult the clerk, who in turn referred the latter to the public works chairman for a decision.

On complaints that sewers age charges were not based in accordance with the provisions of the village bylaw, the report showed the village in 1954 devised a taxing formula to the advantage of property owners.

They were under-charged for the sewer service.

This resulted in loss of revenue to the village.

Mr. Brown suggested the commission ask the legislature to legalize the sewer charges and frontage taxes from 1954 to 1964.

Steps should also be taken to apply charges in accordance with the village.

MAN DIES AFTER FALL

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — A Kildonan man died in hospital Monday night of injuries suffered Saturday in a 20-foot fall from a water tower on his property 20 miles southwest of here.

Maurice Frank Predea, 72, was found by his wife partly submerged in a creek below the tower.

In Our House

By Arthur Mayse

For two honeyed hours on Monday, this swinging western Legislative Assembly achieved such general goodwill as caused its camp-followers to halfway expect official and minor oppositions to cross the floor in a body.

The occasion was not the official birth of Canada's new flag, which now greets the eye from poles and wall sconces in and about this grey old seat of provincial government, but Premier William Andrew Cecil Bennett's triumphant longevity in office. For 12½ years, Mr. Bennett has been master of this House, a feat which fetched him a congratulatory telegram from the six daughters of runner-up Sir Richard McBride.

It was the day of the big triumph, an occasion which Premier Bennett shared with wife and son, galleries laden with Sacred supporters young and not so young, and a full House.

Only one seat gaped empty when, to vigorous desk-slapping, Mr. Bennett made his smile-wreathed entry.

With dramatic exactitude of timing, PGE workers and management had reached a tentative strike settlement at noon. From this peace-making attempt, Labor and Education Minister Peterson was hastening to Victoria.

Mr. Peterson—who later reported on current and upcoming education programs—hustled in a minute after prayers, to shake the premier's hand and join the love-feast.

During the first two hours, New Democrat darts were tipped, not with the usual tinctures, but with much honey and only a touch of vinegar. Opposition Leader Strachan's proposal that Mr. Bennett's political life be forthwith extended by appointment to the Senate was greeted by Sacred with amiable laughter.

Waspish Liberal chief Ray Perrault delivered but the mildest of jabs.

"We wish him health," said he, "we wish him happiness... but not necessarily continuing political success."

On Tuesday, the arrows might be flying fit to blacken the sun. But on mellow Monday the smiles were glued on, and even mention of our current snarl-yow, the "Dear Hal" letter, brought no rejoinder from Attorney-General Bonner.

As for Mr. Bonner, our most graceful parliamentarian, he placed himself second to Mr. Strachan in a motion that a congratulatory address be read to Mr. Bennett.

It was obvious that the premier was deeply moved. For a moment after he rose to reply, it seemed that for the first time in his political career, he might be in danger of losing his voice.

His opening words were difficult to catch; then he drew a deep breath, and contributed to the occasion a response which was brief, generous, and curiously humble.

"I can stand criticism," he said, "Praise is more difficult to accept."

The familiar climate of criticism was presently restored. Just short of 4 o'clock, Liberal Dr. Pat McGeer, Vancouver-Point Grey, flung the first verbal tomahawk of the day at Education Minister Peterson.

Why, he demanded, had university grants been slashed by $5 million?

The minister denied, the gavel smacked, and even though NDP Alex Macdonald, Vancouver East, bit somewhat more mildly than usual in his following speech, the truce was over.

"Disraeli," Mr. Macdonald informed the House, "did not object to the suggestion that Gladstone always had an ace up his sleeve. What he resented was the inference that the Almighty placed it there!"

Trainmen Rebuff Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Great Eastern Railway trainmen rebelled against their union leaders Monday night and continued a strike against the provincially-owned railway only hours after agreement had been announced.

Picket lines went up again around PGE yards and the trainmen said they would not return to work.

They said they were "sold down the river" by their negotiating committee, which signed an agreement to end the strike that began Feb. 2 without permitting a vote among striking members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

The move came only hours after Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and representatives of the PGE and the Brotherhood's negotiating committee emerged from a meeting to announce a settlement.

Despite what Mr. Peterson terms a "wildcat" strike, a freight train left the PGE's North Vancouver station Monday night and a passenger train departed at 10 a.m. today. Both trains were operated by supervisory personnel.

Ballots for a vote on the terms were dispatched to members of two brotherhood locals along the PGE's 790-mile route from Vancouver to Fort St. John.

WANTED VOTE FIRST
The Brotherhood sent a letter Monday night to J. S. Broadbent, general manager of the PGE, telling him the local's members would not go back to work until they voted on the new contract.

The strike had been called off at noon with the signing of a

SPACE BIRD SATELLITE SET TO SPREAD WINGS

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Saturn I rocket, performing flawlessly, hurled a "space bird" satellite into orbit today to measure the impact of meteoroids.

It was the eighth success in a row for the big booster rocket on which the United States counts for major manned space ventures.

Folded in the nose of the rocket was its unique payload, officially named Pegasus after the flying horse of Greek mythology.

Once in orbit, the nose shroud was to fall away and Pegasus was to extend two wing-like panels to a span of 96 feet. Each wing is 14 feet wide and about an inch thick.

ANOTHER PREMIER

Viet Cong Hit Truck Convoy

SAIGON (CP)—South Viet Nam's new premier, Dr. Phan Huy Quat, and his cabinet, the ninth in the last 16 months, assumed office today.

On the war front, a U.S. spokesman said Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed a truck convoy in a mountain pass north of Saigon Monday, killing one-third of the government soldiers.

The ambush left 32 government men dead; 8 wounded and 10 missing. About 100 men, a regional forces company, were on the trucks.

Two of three armored troop carriers escorting the convoy were knocked out by recoilless rifle fire.

One Viet Cong was wounded and captured.

Quat, former foreign minister, presented his 21-member cabinet to chief of state Phan Khac Suu in the ceremonial hall of the Gia Long palace.

INCLUDES OFFICERS

Three army officers were included in the cabinet that will replace a caretaker government ruling the country since the military overthrow of Buddhist-opposed Premier Tran Van Huong last month.

The U.S. mission, commenting on the new cabinet, welcomed "the end of the interim period."

As expected, most of the cabinet members are natives of north and central Viet Nam. The militant Buddhists are strongly represented.

In a speech today, Quat said all bases for Communist aggression in South Viet Nam must be destroyed.

All Communist Viet Cong supply routes must also be wiped out, the premier said.

"If we could seal off all the supply routes, including the Ho Chi-minh Trail, the National Liberation Front (the political arm of the Viet Cong) would not be able to carry on the war."

In central Viet Nam, where troops Monday killed 15 civilians in putting down two anti-government demonstrations, a firing squad execution was scheduled for one of the demonstrators.

Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi said two of the dead were known Viet Cong agitators, and the prisoner scheduled for execution Wednesday was a Viet Cong section leader.

Thi said the prisoner will be shot in Tam Ky as a warning against further demonstrations. Unofficial reports spoke of 40 dead.

Raids Could Spread War, Russ Warn

MOSCOW (CP)—Moscow radio warned the United States today that continued strikes against North Viet Nam could ignite a world war.

Soviet Premier Kossygin also has called for the withdrawal of U.S. troops and military equipment from South Viet Nam.

Tass news agency said.

In an English language broadcast beamed at North America, Moscow radio said:

"The old saying 'peace is indivisible' remains true to this day."

"The flames of war starting in one place could easily spread to neighboring countries and, in the final count, embrace the whole world."

Apparently Ottawa's goin' t' see that Mister Bennett don't laugh his way t' th' bank.

WIRE BRIEFS

Cut Surcharge Tax

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Labor government has decided to reduce the 15 per cent surcharge slapped on most imports last October, official sources reported today. They said the token cut is likely to be between 2½ and five per cent and probably will be announced by next week.

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—Striking during a blizzard before dawn, 150 police swept through the Mafia hideout town of Corleone today and arrested 39 persons on charges of association with outlaws.

FBI ARRESTS FOUR, CHARGING:

'Blast Spree Planned'

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal agents arrested a Canadian woman and three American Negro men here today on charges of conspiring to blow up the Washington Monument, the Statue of Liberty and the Liberty Bell.

Taken into custody was blonde Michelle Duclos, 28, of Montreal, known there as a television personality and a member of the Quebec separatist organization, Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale. Also arrested were Robert S. Collier, 28, Walter A. Bowe, 32, and Khaleel S. Sayyed, 22.

City Police Commissioner Michael Murphy, in describing the group as pro-Castro and pro-Chinese Communists, said the three men were affiliated with the Black Liberation Front.

Murphy said the reported plot was frustrated by detective work by police, especially Patrolman Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the Black Liberation Front three months ago.

The commissioner said Collier, a Liberation Front leader, told Wood of meeting Cuban Premier Castro's right-hand man, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, recently at the United Nations.

Conviction could carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said Miss Duclos entered the United States from Canada Monday and has been employed by one of Quebec

Ottawa Foils Bennett's Bank Plans

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Walter Gordon announced today amendments will be made to banking legislation early in the new session of Parliament providing that no shares of a chartered or savings bank may be registered in the name of any government or its agents.

This move is being made to bar the control of Canadian banks by provincial governments and obviously is aimed directly at the province of British Columbia where Premier Bennett has been seeking to set up a Bank of British Columbia.

The action by the federal government will stir up a storm in the Commons. The New Democratic Party and Creditists have supported Premier Bennett's attempt to obtain interest in a proposed new B.C. bank.

On Feb. 3, Premier Bennett announced in his budget speech to the legislature a proposed Revenue Act amendment to allow the provincial government to buy up to 10 per cent of the issued share capital of any chartered bank.

Mr. Bennett, thwarted by a Senate committee last year in his bid to get incorporation for a provincially-sponsored bank of British Columbia, told reporters the same day that his government intends to buy some shares "in every chartered bank."

HAS JURISDICTION

Mr. Gordon in a statement prepared for the Commons said: "The British North American Act clearly assigns to parliament exclusive jurisdiction over banking and the incorporation of banks."

"It is the intention of the federal government that this responsibility of parliament and of the government under the authority of parliament shall be maintained and not be eroded," he said.

Mr. Gordon said, "even a limited ownership of shares of a

'CAUSES CONCERN' —BONNER

The federal government has set an historical precedent in a proposal to curb investment rights of B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today.

Mr. Bonner said it was the first time in the constitutional history of Canada that the national government has proposed to circumscribe the power of the provinces to invest funds they control in any kind of real or personal property.

He was commenting on federal Finance Minister Gordon's announcement of plans to bar provincial investment in chartered banks.

NO SUGGESTION

The attorney-general said he was "quite surprised." And he said Mr. Gordon's proposal "doesn't reflect in any degree his stated reaction to the proposal to form the Bank of B.C., a year ago."

He said that in informal discussions since then "between myself and cabinet ministers, there has been no suggestion that a step of this sort was ever in contemplation."

The matter will cause a good deal of concern elsewhere in this country as well as in B.C., he added.

Dief, Balcer Sit Apart

OTTAWA (UPI)—Leon Balcer is staying in the Conservative Party but he was not sitting beside John Diefenbaker when the Commons resumed today.

Balcer has decided to remove the embarrassment of sitting beside the leader he still insists must go.

DEADLY SHOTGUNS PROTECT CALIF. HIGHWAY PATROLS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California is arming most of its 3,000 uniformed highway patrolmen with shotguns as protection against what one state official calls the public's changing attitude towards law enforcement agencies.

The patrolmen have been ordered to shoot to kill, if necessary.

Patrol Commissioner Bradford Crittenden said the need for the additional protection has been growing steadily, "particularly in the number of attacks on our patrolmen."

In the last two years two patrolmen have been slain and 78 others assaulted.

Crittenden, former district attorney, said criminals will be less likely to attack an officer who is armed with a weapon as deadly as the shotgun.

The 12-gauge shotguns will use shells containing the largest buckshot available.

Russ McComb, information officer for the patrol, said the discharge would almost cut a man in two when fired at close range.

SHOOT TO KILL if necessary are new orders given California highway patrolmen. Officer Keith Smith attaches paper seal to one of shotguns now being issued. It indicates gun is fully loaded and ready for use. (AP Wirephoto)

BUS PASSENGERS RIDE INTO ANOTHER WORLD RIGHT HERE ON V.I.

North Go the Armchair Pioneers

By TERRY IZZARD
Times Staff Reporter

The final link of a tip-toe Vancouver Island motor route was forged Sunday.

Raving the way for the future was a Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus and a handful of men and women.

In less than a day they brought to fruition a long-standing dream... a regular service between Victoria and Port Hardy, 359 bus miles away.

By 1966 the road complex will link up with the Route of the Haida—a ferry service to Prince Rupert.

12,000 PERSONS

For now it brings the estimated 12,000 persons living north of Campbell River within easy reach of larger Vancouver Island centres.

The service will operate northbound on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, with southbound runs Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

For the first time the beauty of the Nimpkish Valley and Bonanza Lake, the sea coast between Beaver Cove, Port McNeill and Port Hardy have been opened for one and all. The city traveller is treated to brief glimpses of life in a logging camp; camps such as Vernon and Woss, Nimpkish and Kelsey Bay.

ANOTHER WORLD

Here, where life centres on the cookhouse, is another world.

A world of eating, sleeping and working, an occasional visit to the camp movie, an even rarer visit to Campbell River or Nanaimo two or three times a year.

Sometimes there is television; at other camps, like Woss, this is still a thing of the future.

For years the northern half of Vancouver Island has been an island unto itself; a little known, self-contained area; a wilderness in which stood the occasional community. Until now these communities have been no more than names. As of Sunday they became realities, places which can now be reached by bus. The first trip took 17 hours, 4½ hours longer than expected. Aboard was a Times reporter-photographer team recording the historic journey.

The logger's work is his life. Signs of that work are all too apparent as the road curves first through dense forest then on across barren patches stretching as far as the eye can see.

The timber kings leave nothing behind. The country is rugged, now rising steeply, then just as quickly descending into the depths of a misty valley.

Lakes and streams abound as the route meanders across the Nimpkish River, by the banks of Frost Lakes and across the northern tip of Woss Lake.

THE OLD MAN

Watching over it all is the Old Man of the Woods.

No one has ever seen him—he's too crafty for that.

But his scheming handiwork is apparent at every turn. First he beckons with a gnarled finger, enticing the unwary traveller with his skin-deep beauty.

Then he reveals his true character, heaping fog, rain and snow on the unfortunate trespassers.

His sturdy sentries stand guard, casting a baleful eye from on high, as bus 601 plods steadily on its winding course. Inside a handful of passengers chat happily of the journey ahead. There is a pioneering spirit in the air, a light-hearted mixture of expectancy and excitement.

These are the armchair pioneers who have said they will blaze the trail in 12½ hours.

But they reckoned without the Old Man.

As they plough steadily north through waist-high snow and ankle-deep slush, past the new Gold River townsite, they slip slowly but surely behind schedule.

DARKNESS FELL

Darkness has already fallen by the time they pull into Vernon logging camp 85 miles northwest of Campbell River.

Already 1½ hours late, the hamburger fresh passengers head for Woss.

The bus churns warily along the pot-riddled ground. Freak shadows disguise dangerous curves where one slip would mean almost certain death in valleys 100 feet below.

Through Woss Camp where half the total population of 250 turn out in welcome. They, who live in the timber, know why the bus is late.

Over Woss River, by Steele Creek, Kiyu Creek and further north to Kolkish. Past the world's largest bank at Bonanza Lake where countless thousands of logs are hoarded, ready for cashing when the market is ripe.

The Old Man seems almost to have given up now as the bus confidently rumbles on to Port McNeill. Only 24 miles to go.

No longer are there any signs of snow as the bus travels over the $1,000,000 government bridge which is the only link between the north and south shores of the Nimpkish River at this point.

Only a bitter chill remains as a reminder that the frosty forest still has eyes.

The crusty old sentinels, standing ever at attention, have ceased muttering as, after a steep climb, Port Hardy comes in sight, nestling snugly against the sea shore.

It is 1:10 a.m.—just 17 hours after leaving Victoria—when the bus tried stealing stealthily along the sea of mud which is Port Hardy's main street.

ONLY THE SEA

There is no land; no hero's reception; just a sleepy-eyed hotel clerk whose thoughts are still in the faraway land of nod.

With its 15 stores and 550 people it seems hardly a fitting end for such a trip.

But further north there is only the sea... man has gone as far as four wheels will take him.

History has been made and only the Old Man is unhappy. He showed his displeasure in the form of torrents of rain, fog and snow for the return journey Monday.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

HMS Qu'Appelle and HMS Fraser arrive home from Pearl Harbor Friday at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. respectively.

HMS Ottawa arrives at Balboa, Wednesday and HMS Yukon will join her there Monday.

HMS New Glasgow and HMS Savannah are in port at Balboa. In port at Esquimalt are HMS Ships Saskatchewan, Jonquière, Grille, St. Therese, MacKenzie, Saguenay, Beauriville and Antigamish.

A little boy was sick, a tree toppled only yards from the bus, a car came within inches of colliding, but the bus got through to deliver its passengers safely.

SIX DRIVERS

Just who were the men and women cutting themselves in on this slice of history.

There were the six drivers whose job it will be to operate the service: Nanaimo terminal manager Werner Pongratz, and Bill Wilson, chief dispatcher from Victoria.

Stewart Thompson, a self-professed hobo, whose inaugural runs number more than he cares to remember.

In the last 30 years this retired salesman has travelled more than 50,000 miles in Canada including four trans-continent trips.

CAME BACK

Then there was Mrs. Frances Storey who made the journey in reverse to see her daughter in Vancouver.

A resident of Port Hardy for 25 years, she normally gets out of town only twice a year.

And Adrian Briggs, 22, returning to Vancouver after two months logging at Halberg on the northern tip of the island.

For all these people the service will mean a new way of life.

In the past they were able to get out only at night and weekends when the logging roads used by the bus opened to the public.

CUT 100 MILES

In a few years time a new route will be completed from Campbell River along the east coast to Port Hardy by way of Kelsey Bay.

This will cut 100 miles off the present haul.

At long last it will be possible to follow the birds not only "to" but up, and around Vancouver Island.

FROM HEAVILY WOODED VALLEYS the bus runs on across seeming desert land. Huge areas lie barren where the woodsman's saw has taken its toll, leaving not a sign of life.

THESE WERE THE MEN AND WOMEN who pioneered the route. Many were heading for logging camps and only about half completed the full journey. Here they stop to see the new townsite at Gold River on the first leg of ride. (Times photos by Irving Strickland)

SEVEN CHILDREN

Fund Opened For Family Of Logger

A fund was launched today to aid the family of a bulldozer operator who was crushed to death Wednesday by his 10-ton machine.

Herbert Winship, 43, of 653 Strandford, was backing his machine off a flat-deck truck when the left tread slipped off the edge and the bulldozer rolled over.

He left a widow and seven children from two to 14 years.

The fund has been started by Prince Edward Branch 91, Royal Canadian Legion, Langford.

"Mr. Winship was self-employed and was not covered by workmen's compensation," said Stuart Campbell, president of the Legion branch.

VETERAN

He was not a Legion member but served in the Second World War.

Cheques can be made out to the Herbert Winship Fund and mailed to the Legion headquarters at 761 Station Road.

Mr. Campbell said the Legion is planning a benefit dance during the first week in March to aid the fund.

LOW-LEVEL

A coroner's jury Monday night ruled the death accidental but recommended low-level trailer units be employed in transporting heavy equipment.

The jury reported, "It appears he experienced some difficulty or error in judgment while driving the tractor off the truck."

The inquest was held at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel.

BELYING THE HAZARDOUS NATURE of the trip, this map gives at least some idea of the route taken. First northwest to Vernon, then a sweep north to Woss, Nimpkish, Port McNeill and eventually Port Hardy. The area shown has, in the past been accessible by road only to loggers.

TOPICS of the DAY

Dependants of crewmen aboard HMC ships Qu'Appelle and Fraser will be allowed to enter HMC Dockyard Friday 15 minutes before the destroyer-escorts tie up.

The Qu'Appelle is due at 10 a.m. and the Fraser will arrive one hour later.

They are returning from a training cruise to Pearl Harbor where the Fraser took part in a 500-ton TNT blast to test construction of today's warships.

Members of First Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada are stationed at Albert Head camp until March 6 for day and night field training.

Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:25 p.m. and Tuesday next week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. practice rounds will be fired from a 3.5-inch rocket launcher at Mary Hill.

Christmas lighting of city hall was so effective that buildings and grounds committee today proposed spending $2,000 to keep the amber glow burning the year round.

The committee recommended to city council that the symbol of urban redevelopment of Centennial Square be bathed in lights every night, on all sides.

St. Matthias Theatre Society will present "The Importance of Being Earnest" tonight at 8:15 in the Church Hall, corner Richardson and Richmond.

The show is sponsored by the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club. Tickets will be available at the door.

A motorcyclist who fell off his bike in a driveway at HMCS Naden was arrested within minutes by police Monday night and charged with impaired driving.

Douglas McKeown, 293 Atkins, pleaded guilty in Esquimalt court this morning and was fined $300. His licence was suspended.

Esquimalt Dockyard Branch, Royal Canadian Legion, will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the main hall, 622 Admirals.

A man, thrown clear of his car in an accident on Gorge Road Saturday night is still in poor condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

John R. Lloyd, 3737 Duke, suffered head injuries and was unconscious when found. Police are looking for witnesses to the accident which occurred shortly after 5 p.m.

ECONOMIST:

Union Must Accept New Roles

By BOB DONAHUE
Times Education Reporter

Trade unions will likely be one of the large stumbling blocks in progress toward automation. New York economist and expert on automation said here Tuesday.

"There will likely be increasing use of strikes by the unions in an effort to retain their power which will decline sharply in an automated society," Robert Thoebl said in an interview.

The major effects of automation will be felt within the next generation and the trade unions will have to accept their new roles in a new society.

He said unions could be very useful in promoting re-training of people whose jobs are automated.

"The only types of jobs which will not be affected by automation will be in education, politics and the human care of human beings."

FUTILE EFFORT

He said in the future it will be futile for a person to direct their education toward a specific job.

"Society will have to get away from the concept of a job to work. People will train themselves to do whatever they feel is important."

He said the democratic form of government will be retained but the meaning of the word democracy will probably change. "We will distribute more government power at local levels and problems will be dealt with either on a technical or democratic level."

EXTENSION

Mr. Thoebl said his theory of everyone being guaranteed an income whether they work or not is simply an extension of present welfare policies.

"But there will have to be a reversal of the present concept to one in which a guaranteed income is considered a right and not welfare."

OPEN SYSTEM

He said it would operate on an open system in which anyone who wanted to work would be able to.

Mr. Thoebl said the most crucial problem facing mankind is finding something to do with the people who do not have a job.

"We will have to find meaningful employment for them and this depends largely on education."

Gary Allan Moonie, 21-year-old Victoria seaman, admitted shooting his father with a Lee Enfield rifle, a police constable stated in Assize Court here today.

Moonie was quoted as saying: "I only meant to hurt him."

He has pleaded not guilty to the non-capital murder of his father, Allan A. Moonie, 41, at their home at 170 Hartland Road in the early hours of Nov. 28.

Mr. Moonie, a barman in a Victoria hotel, died in Royal Jubilee Hospital two days after the shooting.

Before a 12-man jury in Assize Court today, Constable J. M. Post told of visiting the Moonie's home with two detectives and two policemen at 4:16 a.m.

He said Mr. Moonie Sr. was lying on the floor covered by a blanket. There was a Lee Enfield Mark 1 No. 4 rifle on the dining room table.

Constable Post said to the accused: "Who shot him?" "I did," Moonie replied.

He then pointed to the rifle on the table and Moonie admitted using it.

"Was it an accident?" the constable asked.

"No, I just shot him," Moonie replied.

Later he was asked "Did it enter your mind to shoot your Dad?"

"Yes," Moonie was quoted as replying, "I had thought of it lots of times. That was the reason I was leaving the house."

Constable Post said accused told him he phoned the police immediately after the shooting.

Moonie told him he had gone to bed about 1 a.m. and was awakened some time later by hearing his father shouting at his mother and sister.

"I got up, got dressed, took my rifle out of the rack and put a clip with one bullet in it," Moonie was quoted as saying.

"When I walked into the living room, my father screamed at me. If he had not said what he did this would not have happened."

Constable Post said Moonie broke down and cried while he was answering questions. He said his father had been yelling at his sister Gail (14) about her cat.

The constable said the girl told him her father had stepped on the cat's dish and screamed at her about giving the cat too much milk.

Chief Justice J. O. Wilson is hearing the trial, which commenced this afternoon. William R. McIntyre is crown prosecutor, assisted by C. O. D. Branson. Hugh McGivern, of Vancouver, assisted by his son John, as appearing for Moonie.

Parking Cutback To Clear Street For Fire Trucks

Residential parking along the east side of Moss Street for its entire 14-block length was wiped out today in a recommendation to city council by traffic committee.

Householders of some 85 properties are affected by the move, originating with Fire Chief John Abbott because Moss Street is a major fire route and too narrow to permit safe parking on both sides.

Moss Street runs from Port to Dallas Road, the top end a block away from the main fire hall on Yates Street.

Many of the houses on the east side of Moss have private driveways, it was pointed out.

Immigration Meeting Here

Senior immigration officials from B.C. and the Yukon will meet here for three days starting Wednesday.

The meeting will consider the shortage of skilled workers and how the federal immigration department can work with such agencies as the National Employment Service to overcome this.

'Lady-In-Waiting' Poster Unfair to the Fairer Sex

The Victoria Humanist Fellowship has protested to Health Minister Eric Martin about an "unfortunate impression" in a provincial anti-venereal disease poster.

A resolution passed by the group and forwarded to the minister read:

"The minister of health be requested to do all in his power to remove the unfortunate impression created by this poster that women have the main responsibility for the spread of VD."

FLORIST DIES SUDDENLY

Well-known Victoria florist Gordon Ballantyne died at his home, 275 Dunlevy, this morning.

The 62-year-old Victorian's death came as a shock to friends and relations with whom he had been chatting the day before.

For 44 years he handled a florist business in the city, first with brothers Alan and Clyde on Quadra Street between 1921 and 1935.

Then he and Clyde started their own business under the name of Ballantyne Bros. Ltd., 900 Douglas Street.

Although Gordon semi-retired from active business two years ago, Clyde, 57, still runs the shop.

He is survived by the widow, Winifred. They had no children.

An active member of Victoria Rotary Club for many years, Mr. Ballantyne was also a mason in Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1 and a member of the Capital City Commercial Club.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced. McCall Bros. is in charge.

HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

For two honeyed hours on Monday, this swinging western Legislative Assembly achieved such general goodwill as caused its camp-followers to halfway expect official and minor oppositions to cross the floor in a body.

The occasion was not the official birth of Canada's new flag, which now greets the eye from poles and wall sconces in and about this grey old seat of provincial government, but Premier William Andrew Cecil Bennett's triumphant longevity in office.

For 12½ years, Mr. Bennett has been master of this House, a feat which fetched him a congratulatory telegram from the six daughters of runner-up Sir Richard McBride.

It was the day of the big triumph, an occasion which Premier Bennett shared with wife and son, galleries laden with Socrated supporters young and not so young, and a full House.

Only one seat gaped empty when, to vigorous desk-slapping, Mr. Bennett made his smile-weathered entry.

With dramatic exactitude of timing, PGE workers and management had reached a tentative strike settlement at noon. From this peace-making attempt, Labor and Education Minister Peterson was hastening to Victoria.

Mr. Peterson—who later reported on current and upcoming education programs—bustled in a minute after prayers, to shake the premier's hand and join the love-feast.

During the first two hours, New Democrat darts were tipped, not with the usual tinclures, but with much honey and only a touch of vinegar. Opposition Leader Strachan's proposal that Mr. Bennett's political life be forthwith extended by appointment to the Senate was greeted by Socrateds with amiable laughter.

Waspish Liberal chief Ray Perrault delivered but the mildest of jabs.

"We wish him health," said he, "we wish him happiness... but not necessarily continuing political success."

FBI ARRESTS FOUR, CHARGING:

'Blast Spree Planned'

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal agents arrested a Canadian woman and three American Negro men here today on charges of conspiring to blow up the Washington Monument, the Statue of Liberty and the Liberty Bell.

Taken into custody was blonde Michelle Duclos, 28, of Montreal, known there as a television personality and a member of the Quebec separatist organization, Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale. Also arrested were Robert S. Collier, 28, Walter A. Bowe, 32, and Khaleel S. Sayyed, 22.

City Police Commissioner Michael Murphy, in describing the group as pro-Castro and pro-Chinese Communists, said the three men were affiliated with the Black Liberation Front.

Murphy said the reported plot was frustrated by detective work by police, especially Patrolman Raymond Wood, who infiltrated the Black Liberation Front three months ago.

The commissioner said Collier, a Liberation Front leader, told Wood of meeting Cuban Premier Castro's right-hand man, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, recently at the United Nations.

Conviction could carry a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said Miss Duclos entered the United States from Canada Monday and has been employed by one of Quebec's Continued on Page 2

Trainmen
Rebuff
Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Great Eastern Railway trainmen rebelled against their union leaders Monday night and continued a strike against the provincially-owned railway only hours after agreement had been announced.

Picket lines went up again around PGE yards and the trainmen said they would not return to work.

They said they were "sold down the river" by their negotiating committee, which signed an agreement to end the strike that began Feb. 2 without permitting a vote among striking members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (CLC).

The move came only hours after Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and representatives of the PGE and the Brotherhood's negotiating committee emerged from a meeting to announce a settlement.

Despite what Mr. Peterson terms a "wildcat" strike, a freight train left the PGE's North Vancouver station Monday night and a passenger train departed at 10 a.m. today. Both trains were operated by supervisory personnel.

Ballots for a vote on the terms were dispatched to members of two brotherhood locals along the PGE's 790-mile route from Vancouver to Fort St. John.

WANTED VOTE FIRST

The Brotherhood sent a letter Monday night to J. S. Broadbent, general manager of the PGE, telling him the local's members would not go back to work until they voted on the new contract.

The strike had been called off at noon with the signing of a Continued on Page 2

LONDON (AP)—The nude body of a woman was found covered with grass in West London today and police speculated she could be the sixth victim of a crazed sex killer.

Four-Lanes
Promised
To Ferry

Highways Minister, Gagliardi today promised to make the Patricia Bay Highway a four-lane route.

Speaking in the budget debate, Mr. Gagliardi criticized "engineers who had been spouting off while they knew the government was waiting for a report."

The minister said he was now ready to get on with the job. No starting date for the project was mentioned but Mr. Gagliardi indicated that tenders would be called some time this year.

Dupuis Names
Fund Raiser

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal MP Yvon Dupuis charged in the Commons today that an election fund raiser for the Quebec provincial Liberal party signed an agreement in 1962 to acquire for nothing a 10-per-cent cut of a proposed race track.

Mr. Dupuis, asked by Prime Minister Pearson to resign as minister without portfolio Jan. 20, identified the fund raiser as Rene Hebert of Verdun, a Montreal suburb.

ANOTHER PREMIER

Viet Cong Hit
Truck Convoy

SAIGON (CP)—South Viet Nam's new premier, Dr. Phan Huy Quat, and his cabinet, the ninth in the last 16 months, assumed office today.

On the war front, a U.S. spokesman said Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed a truck convoy on a mountain pass north of Saigon Monday, killing one-third of the government soldiers.

The ambush left 32 government men dead; 8 wounded and 10 missing. About 100 men, a regional forces company, were on the trucks.

Two of three armored troop carriers escorting the convoy were knocked out by recoilless rifle fire.

One Viet Cong was wounded and captured.

Quat, former foreign minister, presented his 21-member cabinet to chief of state Phan Khac Suu in the ceremonial hall of the Gia Long palace.

INCLUDES OFFICERS

Three army officers were included in the cabinet that will replace a caretaker government ruling the country since the military overthrow of Buddhist-opposed Premier Tran Van Huong last month.

The U.S. mission, commenting on the new cabinet, welcomed "the end of the interim period."

Apparently Ottawa's going to see that Mister Bennett don't laugh his way off the bank.

Dorion Calls
Denis Back
On Stonehill

OTTAWA (CP)—Chief Justice Frederic Dorion today ordered that Raymond Denis be recalled to the witness stand to testify about his connection with the Harry Stonehill immigration case.

The chief justice gave his ruling at the resumption of his inquiry into accusations of influence peddling and bribery attempts against ministerial aides.

He said Denis is being recalled to the witness box to test his credibility.

The judge recalled that Denis had testified before the inquiry that he didn't even want to hear about the Liberal party campaign fund let alone talk about it.

He said that after Denis is recalled he will decide whether Stonehill, Hal Dorman, Prime Minister Pearson's speech writer, and Al Williamson, a Vancouver public relations man, should be summoned as witnesses.

Denis, former executive assistant to then Immigration Minister Tremblay, is accused of offering a $20,000 bribe to obtain bail for Lucien Rivard, wanted in the U.S. on narcotics conspiracy charges.

Recently published reports have also linked Denis with the case of Stonehill, an American millionaire who has been expelled from Canada and who faces fraud charges in the U.S. Denis had denied in the hearings that he had suggested that a person acting for Rivard should get in touch with Senator Louis P. Gelin, Liberal party treasurer in Quebec.

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Walter Gordon announced today amendments will be made to banking legislation early in the new session of Parliament providing that no shares of a chartered or savings bank may be registered in the name of any government or its agents.

This move is being made to bar the control of Canadian banks by provincial governments and obviously is aimed directly at the province of British Columbia where Premier Bennett has been seeking to set up a Bank of British Columbia.

The action by the federal government will stir up a storm in the Commons. The New Democratic Party and Creditists have supported Premier Bennett's attempt to obtain interest in a proposed new B.C. bank.

On Feb. 5, Premier Bennett announced in his budget speech to the legislature a proposed Revenue Act amendment to allow the provincial government to buy up to 10 per cent of the issued share capital of any chartered bank.

Mr. Bennett, thwarted by a Senate committee last year in his bid to get incorporation for a provincially-sponsored Bank of British Columbia, told reporters the same day that his government intends to "buy some shares" in every chartered bank.

HAS JURISDICTION

Mr. Gordon in a statement prepared for the Commons said: "The British North America Act clearly assigns to parliament exclusive jurisdiction over banking and the incorporation of banks."

"It is the intention of the federal government that this responsibility of parliament and of the government under the authority of parliament shall be maintained and not be eroded," he said.

Mr. Gordon said, "even a limited ownership of shares of a Continued on Page 2

BACK UP':
BENNETT

The B.C. government will stay on its collision course with federal intentions to preserve control of banks in Ottawa, Premier Bennett indicated today.

Grinning broadly, he said he was "not concerned" by Finance Minister Gordon's announcement that the federal government will seek to ban any provincial participation in chartered banks.

Asked if this would mean that the B.C. government might hold up or withdraw its bill, already given first reading, to authorize investment in any or all chartered banks or trust companies in the country, Mr. Bennett laughed: "British Columbia does not back up. It only goes ahead."

Although the premier said he had not been informed of the announcement, he chuckled confidently throughout a brief interview in the corridors outside the Legislative Assembly as reporters crowded around him.

Asked if he thought the federal government's plan would be approved by Parliament, Mr. Bennett laughed and said he had no way of knowing what the outcome would be.

"At no time have I dictated to the federal parliament," he said. "I may argue with the federal government but I can't try to dictate to Parliament."

At first declining any personal reaction, Mr. Bennett said: "I find the statement very interesting."

He ducked through the door to the Legislative chamber while reporters were still firing questions.

Moments earlier, Recreation and Conservation Minister Kiernan said he felt the announcement "might be a blessing in disguise" because it could lead to a showdown in Parliament which the Liberals could lose.

He said Mr. Gordon's plan could be "political stupidity" and termed it a major blow against confederation.

He said the provinces created the federal government by entering confederation and any move that would tend to make them slaves of their own creation was a "foul swipe" at confederation.

CARACAS (AP)—About 100 leftist students attacked the U.S. Embassy in this Venezuelan capital today, hurling bottles of ink and denouncing what they called "Yankee intervention in Viet Nam." Two windows were smashed and the walls were stained with ink. No one was injured.

Liberals Ready to Name Stonehill Letter Author

Harry McKay (L-Fernie) today was to tell the legislature the identity of the author of the "Dear Hal" mystery letter while new developments rippled at the fringes of the case in Vancouver and Ottawa.

Mr. McKay was to name the bank by another government, whether it be a foreign government or a provincial government, could place such government in special positions of power or influence in relation to that bank.

"Such a situation might lead to differences of opinion between this government and another government, and to confusion over who exercises authority in regard to the bank."

AVOID DANGER

"In order to avoid this danger the proposed amendments will provide that no shares of a chartered or savings bank may be registered in the name of any government or its agents," he said.

"If any transfers of shares of a bank are registered after this date and before the coming into force of the revised bank acts, which would have been required to be refused under the revised acts, it will be provided that such shares shall not have voting rights," the finance minister declared.

He added that the federal government would welcome more competition in the banking field and was hopeful that private members' bills proposing the incorporation of two new banks might be dealt with expeditiously.

'Taste for Work' Judge's Recipe For Young Man

A 23-year-old man was told by Magistrate William Ostler this morning that "there is nothing very much wrong with you that a little hard work won't cure."

The magistrate sentenced Kenneth Hodges, 291 Rosebank, to eight months in jail for false pretences.

He said that Hodges will have the chance to work in a forest camp "which will give you a taste for work."

Hodges earlier pleaded guilty to using a fictitious name to obtain goods at various city stores in the week before Christmas.

He gave himself up to police two weeks ago saying that he wanted to clear his conscience.

He's Not Welcome

SMETHWICK, England (Reuters) — Peter Griffiths, Conservative representative for this race-conscious industrial town, said today he would demand in Parliament that steps be taken to bar militant American Negro leader Malcolm X from Britain.

man who wrote the letter, purportedly sent by Premier Bennett, because Attorney-General Robert Bonner had not met Alan Macfarlane's demand Thursday that he do so.

"We are going all the way to the wire," Mr. Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay) said this morning.

Meanwhile, a Vancouver report said RCMP had taken a load of files from the office of public relations man Al Williamson, who was linked closely to the letter by Mr. Macfarlane's speech in the legislature.

CHARGES SEEN

The files related to work Mr. Williamson did for Harry Stonehill on whose behalf he contacted various officials in Ottawa to determine the status of his immigration application. The letter was believed to be an effort to influence outcome of the application.

The report follows an announcement by Mr. Bonner that RCMP had been instructed to seek "additional information" which could be used in laying charges resulting from the case.

Meanwhile Mr. Williamson today in Vancouver denied that RCMP removed documents from his public relations firm.

Mr. Williamson said he has co-operated with police and made available to them what material they wanted.

DORION

that the published report on the Stonehill case said that Denis had mentioned Senator Gelinis and a sum of $25,000 or $30,000.

Dornan is connected with the case because he introduced Denis to Stonehill and Williamson.

Mr. Pearson has said Dornan acted with "perfect propriety."

The judge re-read earlier testimony in which Denis said again and again that the Liberal campaign fund was none of his business and that he had been ordered by Mr. Tremblay never to have anything to do with it.

Denis had told Liberal organizer Guy Masson, "don't speak to me about election funds."

SURPRISED, ANNOYED

Denis also testified he was surprised and annoyed that Masson had even mentioned to him that he had telephoned Senator Gelinis June 23.

Masson testified that $50,000 was available to the Liberal party if Rivard's extradition to the U.S. were blocked.

Chief Justice Dorion said the purpose of recalling Denis is not to determine a question of similar acts, but to test the credibility of Denis.

There were "flagrant contradictions" in the testimony of certain witnesses and one of his most difficult tasks was to decide which witness or witnesses to believe.

Chief Justice Dorion then said he would grant the application of Ross Drouin, counsel for the Conservative party, that Denis be recalled for questioning on his alleged statements in the Stonehill case.

He would reserve his decision on whether other witnesses should be called in the Stonehill case until after Denis has been heard.

Jules Deschamps, federal government counsel, asked that the record of the hearings include a note that on behalf of the federal government he regretted Chief Justice Dorion's decision.

Forest Building Tours Scheduled

The new $2,500,000 federal forest research laboratory will open its doors to the public tonight and Wednesday.

Conducted tours for adults and children accompanied by parents have been arranged for 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

First to tour the ultra-modern laboratory were some 300 guests invited to the official opening Monday of the big research centre on Burnside Road.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony was conducted by Lieutenant-Governor G. R. Pearkes who in a brief address stressed the importance of B.C. forest lands — the mainstay of the province's economy.

Guests included some of the province's leading forest researchers, representatives from university and scientific organizations and of federal and provincial government officials.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Daley, 469 Admirals Road, who attended the ceremony on behalf of their son who died in September, 1964.

Their son, Gordon William, worked on the building as a carpenter and took a keen interest in its construction. He hoped to attend the official opening but died as the laboratory neared completion.

Dupuis Probe Report to A-G

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons today that he decided last month to seek the resignation of Yvon Dupuis from the cabinet after seeing a preliminary report on allegations against the former minister without portfolio. He ordered the probe last December.

The prime minister said the inquiry still is incomplete, but the preliminary report has been referred to Attorney-General Claude Wagner of Quebec.

contract agreed to by J. W. Robinson, chairman of the Brotherhood's PGE locals.

Before it was signed, members sought an injunction to prevent the ratification, but were too late.

They called an emergency meeting, and asked Mr. Robinson to resign as general chairman of Locals 1080 and 645.

A union spokesman said the strike is legal, not wildcat, and is based on the union's constitution.

A week after the 177 trainmen struck Feb. 2 the PGE closed down and laid off 1,400 non-striking employees because of telephoned threats to them and their families.

Mediator Dr. G. Neil Perry made a report to the government on the strike, and the agreement signed at noon Monday was based on this report.

It gave road crews an extra two-per-cent pay boost for handling long trains. The PGE won the right to reduce some yard crews from three men to two — one of the original points at issue.

The two-per-cent increase brought the total wage increase to seven per cent. Current wages range from $450 to $650 a month for road crews, $2.53 an hour for yard foremen and $2.34 for yard helpers.

Mr. Broadbent said the strike cost the PGE $1,000,000 in revenue.
